THE NEGRO AS AN ISSUE

aryland Democrats Frankly Avow the Purpose of the Party.

HI SENATORIAL OUTLOOK

Event of Democratic Victory Arthur P. orman Will Succeed George L. Wellington in U. S. Senate.

[illegible] Aug. 1.—The Democratic [illegible] here today declared the purpose of the [illegible] successful in the election, is [illegible] negro from politics in [illegible] it work anything be possible [illegible] the exclusion of the state, [illegible] the paramount issue of the [illegible] the candidate nominated [illegible] governor and that [illegible] in the various county and dis[illegible] for the legislature of 1902, which will elect a United States senator [illegible] George L. Wellington. That [illegible] in the event of Democratic victory [illegible] Arthur P. Gorman is settled beyond question, although no formal announcement of his [illegible] has been made.

[illegible] and Thomas Turner [illegible] not yet been mingled for these [illegible] platform with [illegible] to the negro vote in [illegible] 4,000 majority of the white [illegible] of Maryland. They, in common with their brethren of other states in which large masses of colored voters have been injected into the body politic, recognize that the peace, good order, personal safety and proper development of our material interests depend upon the control of the commonwealth by its intelligent white residents. Without the aid of the worst colored voters, the Republican party in Maryland would be a hopeless minority.

"We, therefore, without hesitation proclaim that the success of the Democratic party will mean that while we shall deal with perfect fairness in securing all the benefits of good government and full and free opportunities for education to all classes, such action must be taken as to prevent the control of the state government from passing into the hands of those who have neither the ability nor the interest to manage public affairs widely and well."

Other planks in the platform reaffirm the devotion of the local party to [illegible] principles enunciated by Jefferson; assert that Democratic control is necessary to the welfare of the state and commend the administration of John Walter Smith as governor.

United States Senator Gorman was present throughout the convention and after adjournment was tendered an ovation.

BULDER'S CELEBRATION OF QUARTO-CENTENNIAL

[illegible] Gaines were finally adopted. The judiciary of the country was branded as "a servile tool in the hands of the capitalistic class and hostile to the interests of labor."

At the last moment a resolution was introduced declaring the establishment of unity in every question that came before the convention the Chicago faction had been voted down and when this resolution made its appearance Delegate Berger of Milwaukee, the Debs leader, signified his defeat by declaring the convention had accomplished its purposes that Chicago had surrendered, and unity had been established.

AKIN VENEZUELA CABINET IS SURPRISING

[illegible], Aug. 1.—The break [illegible] cabinet caused by [illegible] of Senor Rulido, the [illegible] war, caused much surprise in [illegible] circles here. The real situation [illegible] not understood, especially the proposition to demand passports to Senor Rico, the [illegible] minister. This act originated [illegible] diplomats as the [illegible] cause both [illegible] and officials at a loss to understand the [illegible] of such a [illegible] It is said that the relations between [illegible] Venezuela and [illegible] are very cordial. [illegible] appears to be some inconsistency [illegible] between San Cristobal [illegible] government's troops [illegible] The dispatches from Port of Spain declaring that the government troops sustained defeat, while a telegram received at the Venezuelan legation here today from the consul general of that country, at New York announced the defeat of the revolutionists in the San Cristobal encounter.

Senor Guerra, who succeeded to the war portfolio, is a well-known military leader and has occupied the position of adjutant general of the Venezuelan army. Senor Pulido, the retiring minister, is an uncle of Senor Rulido, the Venezuelan charge d'affaires in Washington. The latter declines to discuss in any way the political situation in Venezuela, other than to say that the relations between the governments of Venezuela and Colombia have been most cordial.

ROOM OPEN ROUGH THE JUBILEE

[illegible], Aug. 1.—The Commercial [illegible] tomorrow will say: [illegible] executive board [illegible] from J. Pierpont Morgan [illegible] the vice presidency [illegible] when on of the Hotel Lincoln, [illegible] weeks ago. The powers [illegible] combine invest in this company [illegible] that the law [illegible] of settlement [illegible] the terms which the [illegible] of the combine. There is scarcely [illegible] of the workers will in reply outline their plans to the steel corporation for a continuation of the great struggle. They will include the stopping of every wheel possible in the works of the combine and the extension of the strike in all possible directions by the Amalgamated association. Today has developed much but if the combine cannot be made to waver through the influence that will be brought to bear, the great conflict will probably be fought to the bitter end.

CADILLAC THE VICTOR.

Chicago, August 1.—In the first of the additional trial races for the Canada cup sailed today between the Cadillac of Detroit and Milwaukee of Milwaukee, the former boat scored a victory, defeating its rival by about two minutes. The race was nine miles to windward and return. The additional races are to be best two in three and the second race will be sailed tomorrow.

TRANSPORT BROKEN DOWN.

San Francisco, August 1.—The horse transport Lennox, now out 22 days from Manila, is broken down, at sea about 165 miles from this port and the transport tug Slocum has gone to her assistance. It is not believed that she is in any great danger.

NEWS NOTES FROM VICTOR

Victor Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Victor, Aug. 1.—Charles Bildenthaul, a timber man, employed at the Golden Cycle property, on Bull hill, received a severe injury to [illegible] this morning that will probably cripple him for life. He was hewing a [illegible] with an axe when it glanced away from the timber and cut a bad gash on the inner side of his foot. A physician was called and took several stitches in the wound. The injured man lives at 419 Victor avenue, in this city.

Early this morning the store of the Teller County Furniture company, on South Third street, was entered by burglars and $5 cash and four revolvers, valued at $5 each, were taken. Entrance was gained to the store through a rear window. No arrests have yet been made.

ELKTON

Special to the Gazette.

Elkton, Aug. 1.—A mysterious burglary took place in this town last night. W. P. Laing, agent of the Wells-Fargo Express Co., states that sometime during the night he was robbed of $175. Part of the money belonged to the express and a portion of it to the agent. Laing states that [illegible] and had the money on his person. When he awoke this morning his pockets had been rifled and everything taken. He is of the opinion that the perpetrator of the crime saw him put the money in his pocket in the express office and followed him home, and that he waited until he had gone to sleep, then opened the door with a skeleton key, and drugged and robbed him. He claims that there was a sickening odor in the room when he awoke this morning, and that he felt rather groggy. The case will be thoroughly investigated by the company's officers.

Mrs. J. B. Polly entertained at luncheon this afternoon. The guests were Mrs. Al. Watts and Mrs. George Creek of Anaconda, Miss Laura McCullough of Smithville, Mo., and Miss Belle Curtis of Canon City.

An audience of 400 men, women and children saw a rough and tumble fight in this town yesterday afternoon, between Carl Fusen on one side and the two Osser brothers on the other. The fight was over a fair damsel's hand. Judge Gunnell fined two of the parties for disturbance.

The Young [illegible] gave a well-attended social at their home this evening.

NEWS NOTES FROM PUEBLO

Pueblo Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Pueblo, Aug. 1.—The Pueblo Traction Co. completed plans for the construction of a fire proof extension to its present plant. The improvements will cost in the neighborhood of $75,000. The new building will be absolutely fire-proof throughout, steel being largely used in its construction. The idea is to afford protection for the city's lighting system, as well as for the Traction company's property.

The Mesa Christian church has been incorporated. The church recently purchased the old Broadway Methodist church property.

The three Italians arrested in Pueblo yesterday on a charge of being the murderers of Manuel Cruz, near Trinidad, have been released, as they succeeded in proving that they were not the men.

The young ladies who will represent Pueblo county on the float at the Quarto-centennial, went to Colorado Springs this evening. They will represent the railroads entering Pueblo, as follows: Miss Daisy Downen, Missouri Pacific; Miss Bessie Nash, Rock Island; Miss Aldine Lynch, Santa Fe; Miss Bessie Hogg, Colorado and Southern. Others on the float will be Miss Elizabeth Meyers and Miss Louise Rankin. Mrs. T. M. Boan and Mrs. Henry Chapman, who will act as chaperones.

OURAY

Special to the Gazette.

Ouray, Aug. 1.—Hon. Thomas F. Walsh left for Colorado Springs this morning in response to an invitation to respond to a toast at the Quarto-centennial celebration.

Hon. Thomas J. Maloney concluded a deal today whereby he and Dennis Sullivan of Denver came into possession of eight claims in the Sheffels district from Michael Sullivan. The consideration was $30,000.

SUICIDE OF JOSHUA HAMMOND AT CYANIDE

Special to the Gazette.

Florence, Aug. 1.—Joshua Hammond, saloonkeeper at Cyanide, shot himself in his saloon at 9:15 a. m., and at 10:30 he died. Hammond, who had been despondent for more than a year and many times threatened to end his life, this morning carried out his threat. The tragedy occurred behind the barrel his resort and the bullet passed through his body under the heart and he fell to the floor. Hammond was 45 years old and leaves a wife and two sons, one [illegible] Hammond is said to be a brother-in-law of the [illegible] of the tragedy. Hammond was a member of the Odd Fellows.

JULY WAS HOT IN KANSAS.

Lawrence, Kans., August 1.—The weather report of the University of Kansas says for the month of July it was the warmest month of any in 24 years. Its mean temperature was 86 degrees, 8½ degrees above the July average. The nearest approach to it was July, 1868, with a temperature of 83 degrees. The mercury reached 90 degrees on every day of the month, an unprecedented fact, and passed the 100 mark 21 days, 18 of which were consecutive.

CORN TOOK A JUMP.

New York, August 1.—An announcement on the produce exchange that the Missouri state report on corn was only 21 per cent., or one of the worst in the state's history, indicating about one-fourth of a crop, turned the corn market into an excited uproar this afternoon and violently uplifted prices fully two cents a bushel, September closing at 60 2-4. The reported trouble of Phillips & company had little effect here.

DEUTSCHLAND'S NEW RECORD.

New York, August 1.—The steam ship Deutschland, of the Hamburg-American line, which arrived today, raised the western average for hourly runs to 23.01. The best previous average was 23.02 knots and was made by the same vessel. Her best day's run was 601 knots, which is also a new record. The Deutschland when passing Nantucket lightship signaled by the Marconi system and obtained [illegible]

GOV. JAMES B. ORMAN.

RULES GOVERNING THE BANQUET.

The editorial banquet will begin promptly at 9 tonight.

The guests will assemble on the [illegible] floor ball room at the Antlers at [illegible]

Every person must have a ticket of admission signed by Henry Russell Wray, chairman of the press committee. These tickets will be collected at the door.

One male reporter and only one of each daily newspaper in the state will be admitted to report the proceedings but such reporter must present [illegible] a ticket of admission at the door duly signed by Mr. Wray as chairman.

All persons who have been invited to the banquet and who have not tickets of admission can obtain the same by applying to Mr. Wray at Press headquarters in room 1, Antlers hotel.

INDIAN VILLAGE GROWS IN NUMBER

Santa Claras Will Be Joined This Morning by a Band of 20 Utes From the Southern Reservations.

By C. C. Spicer.

The [illegible] last night at the Midway was the largest on record. From 7 o'clock until the closing hour the fair grounds were packed full of people, and every attraction on the street accommodated all the spectators the tents would hold.

The Indian village is probably the most popular attraction on the Midway for the tourists. There was a stream of people going in there all night. Governor Gutierrez and his brave [illegible] interesting and [illegible] performance. The village is under the management of Phil Wilson, the former newspaper man of this city, and he is managing it with the push and energy that characterized his parcell-pushing Russ Wood and Dr. Hutchings are also assistants. They know they have a good thing and believe in pushing it to the limit. The dances last night were exceedingly interesting. The program included the eagle dance, the moon dance, and war dances. The eagle dance is performed by two Indians who are decked out with eagle feathers. They extend their feather-covered arms to represent wings and go through the evolutions of the regal bird with remarkable resemblance to the real. The wild deer dance is another realistic performance. The war dances are wild affairs that savor strongly of the real thing. The Indians have a lot of pottery for sale. It is in all shapes and sizes and there are some very useful as well as ornamental souvenirs to be had at reasonable prices.

In future the village will be open only from 3 to 4:30 in the afternoon and from 7:30 to 10:30 at night, the change being made because the Indians wear themselves out in the long performances entering into the dances with great spirit. A neat little sum has already been cleared above all expenses [illegible] will end all too soon.

Twenty Utes will arrive at 6 o'clock this morning, coming through the special permission of the department of the interior. This tribe is friendly to the Santa Claras, and they will be quartered together on the Midway. Interpreter Harrison explains that the Indians are enjoying themselves immensely.

One of the great features of the fair will be a daring act by Mr. Thomas Hazlitt Saturday evening. The [illegible] to any person except the trainer, Lorenzo, who would enter the cage of Wallace, the fierce Bengal tiger. Hazlitt has agreed to enter the cage Saturday night at 8 o'clock and in the event that he comes out alive to give the money to the Elks' charity fund. To accommodate the large crowds which certainly will be present the entrance to the amphitheater will be moved some feet up the Midway. Wallace is said to be one of the fiercest lions in the world, having killed three of his former trainers.

A turn-out which will attract great attention in the parade today will be a Lilliputian carriage, drawn by the tiny ponies, Little Casino and Midget. Little Miss Madeline Nolan will hold the ribbons and the carriage will undoubtedly be a prize winner.

One of the most valuable additions to the dog and pony show will be made today. Bonner, Jr., will arrive, some time during the day and will be ready to show the people his tricks tonight. This wonderful horse was sired by the world-famous Bonner, now clearing nearly $1,000 a day at the Pan-American exposition. Bogner is a spelling horse and one of the cleverest and best trained animals in the world.

The fair is proving to be a grand success [illegible] last night it will end all too soon.

Centennial Ball Drew Many Dancers

By Ella Celeste Adams.

Several hundred people were present at the grand Quarto-centennial ball given last evening at the Broadmoor casino. Both ball room and dining room were made ready for the dancers, being handsomely decorated for the occasion.

Cavallo's orchestra was stationed in the hall between the rooms devoted to dancing and a large majority of those present were representatives of Colorado Springs most exclusive social set.

The increased car service was much esteemed, the last car leaving the casino gates at 1 a. m., giving the dancers a long evening in which to enjoy themselves.

The list of patronesses included Mesdames Chester A. Arthur, Francis C. Harris, Franc Ogilvy Wood, F. W. Goddard, L. R. Ehrich, H. P. Farnsworth, E. P. Shove, Henry Russell Wray, W. F. Douglas, G. R. Buckman, G. B. Webb, A. T. Connell, H. G. Lunt, William Hunmer Eaton, Wm. H. Leonard, T. H. Edsall.

Floor committee, D. Russ Woodhouse, P. Lunt, Richard J. Fechheimer, Arthur Connell, W. Harry Leondard, W. P. Sargeant, R. L. Kennedy, Duncan Chisholm, Clarence Edsall, Leonard Carpenter.

VISITORS AT CANTON.

Canton, O., Aug. 1.—Theodore Search of Philadelphia, president of the National Association held a conference with President McKinley at his home today, relating to the interests to manufacturers. He refused to state the specific object of his mission.

Mrs. M. A. Hanna of Cleveland arrived this afternoon and will be a guest of President and Mrs. McKinley for several days.

COOL IN PORTLAND.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 1.—According to the weather bureau the mean temperature in this city for July was 62.8, the lowest in 29 years. The maximum temperature for July was 82 degrees.

MINES AND MINING AT ST. LOUIS FAIR

St. Louis, Aug. 1.—The department of mines and mining of the Louisiana purchase exposition is the first to organize. The committee on mines and mining today selected Dr. David T. Day, chief of the department of mines and mining at the Pan-american exposition, as the head of the same department here. His [illegible] with the Louisiana purchase exposition will begin at once. The same committee appointed W. S. Ward of Denver, as field director of the department of mines and mining. It will be his duty to represent the department in the west and secure the exhibits. Until this is finally accomplished, Mr. Ward will make his headquarters in Denver, coming to St. Louis whenever necessary. Both appointees are old friends and co-workers in the government geological survey. Mr. Ward was director in chief of Colorado's mining exhibit at the Columbian exposition in 1893, and represented his state at the Paris exposition of 1889 and 1900 and Omaha in 1898.

TWO WOMEN LYNCHED IN MISSISSIPPI

Carrollton, Miss., August 1.—The brutal murder of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Taliaferro on the night of July 20, led tonight to the lynching of Betsy McCray, her son, Belfield McCray, and her daughter, Ida McCray, all colored.

A mob, composed of about 500 white citizens of Carroll county, who marched to the jail in order demanded the keys from Jailer Duke, proceeded to the cells of the negroes, bound them by the neck and hands and carried them to the corporate limits of the town where they hanged them to a tree by the public roadside and riddled their bodies with bullets. The mob resisted the earnest appeals of Judge W. F. Stephens and W. H. Hill, who stood on the steps of the jail and appealed to them in the name of law and order. They even followed the mob to the cell doors with their arms around the necks of the leaders, pleading with them to let the law take its course, but with no effect. Ida McCray confessed knowledge of the murder and stated that her mother, Betsy, and her brother, Belfield, helped commit the crime. She further implicated others who will probably meet a like fate. Betsy McCray refused to make any statement.

Governor A. H. Longino arrived on the scene by special train from Jackson a few minutes after the lynching. He addressed a large and attentive audience at the court house, impressing upon them the duty of their citizenship and obedience to law and order.

The most prominent citizens of the county labored with the excited mob during the day to allow the law to take its course, but without avail.

YOUNG SCHLEY DENIES PUBLISHED INTERVIEW

Salt Lake, Utah, Aug. 1.—When shown a Washington dispatch stating the war department would take cognizance of the published interview regarding the court of inquiry upon his father, Rear Admiral Schley, Captain Thomas F. Schley who is stationed at Fort Douglas in this city, today stated that the interview as published was wholly unauthorized.

"All I said in the matter," continued Captain Schley, "was that I was naturally a Schley partisan and hoped that my father would be fully vindicated. Surely there is nothing improper in a son wishing his father success. I positively declined to enter into a discussion of the merits of the controversy. In the first place I am not competent to discuss the case because I know nothing of it. My father has never spoken of the matter to me and has never mentioned it in his letters. If my father has said as up in his sleeve, he has not notified me of the fact."

BUSINESS FAILURES RECORDED BY DUN & CO.

New York, Aug. 1.—Reports to R. G. Dun & Co. show commercial failures in the United States during July 637, with an aggregate indebtedness of $17,017,662. Compared with the same month last year there appears most gratifying improvement as failures were then 793 in number and $9,441,575 in amount. The decrease occurred principally in the manufacturing class where last month's insolvencies numbered 155 for $8,240,193 against 183 last year, owing $5,177,682.

Canadian failures numbered 85, with liabilities of $455,222, of which 13 were in manufacturing for $84,886, and 70 in trading for $320,347. The month's total is much below the recent average, both in number and amount, while compared with the same month last year there is a decrease of $251,211 in liabilities.

GOOD OUTLOOK FOR STRIKE SETTLEMENT

San Francisco, August 1.—The only new phase to the local labor trouble is a strong undercurrent that is making for peace. The Municipal league which held secret meetings today with labor leaders and employers reports that the outlook for a settlement is encouraging and that a basis of adjustment may be received within 24 hours. An officer of the league said:

"We find both sides ready to make [illegible] We find the employers are ready to recognize the unions and the unions are ready to stop interfering with the business of employers outside of what are considered the legitimate lines."

On the water front only four vessels were loading and only one coal bunker was in operation.

The transport Kilpatrick sailed for Manila at 1 p. m. The Water Front Federation has organized a patrol system with a view of assisting the police in preserving order. It is stated that the coal merchants have applied to the employers also to assist them in having credit denied by the dealers, who are supplying them with necessaries, in order to bring the situation to a climax.

ROOSEVELT WAS IN KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Aug. 1.—Vice President Theodore Roosevelt spent an hour in Kansas City en route to Colorado Springs where he goes to address the Quarto-centennial celebration. A number of local politicians greeted him at the depot. When a reporter mentioned the 1904 Roosevelt club recently organized in Kansas City, Mr. Roosevelt received the information with a nod but made no remark regarding it.

DRAWING OF INDIAN LANDS IN ENDED

Fort Reno, Aug. 1.—The drawing of winning numbers in the United States land lottery was concluded today, 13,000 envelopes having been taken from the wheel, 6,500 for each land district. The crowd about the platform on which the drawing took place was much smaller than on previous days.

Beginning August 6, 125 names in each district will be called daily for 60 days for the filing of [illegible] The estimates made by a government official that in each land district 1,000 of the 6,500 numbers will not be taken in the 60 days because of homesteaders who will be disqualified, of who will leave the county, believing their claims to be worthless, this will leave only 5,500 persons who will make entry in their respective districts. Two thousand claims will be left for the wagon emigrants and others who have been in the country for months and failed to draw a number. At the end of 60 days these [illegible] can go immediately to the land, take and file or if they settle upon any [illegible] stead in advance of any other person they can remain there [illegible] months before filing their entry. [illegible] and speculators who registered [illegible] sole purpose of selling their prize [illegible] are already seeking to sell relinquishments of their claims.

PEACE HOPE ON SETTLEMENT

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 1.—The third all day session of the Amalgamated association executive board has passed without action being taken on the New York conference peace proposals. Another session will be held tomorrow.

The executive board of the association is in fact waiting for a word from J. Pierpont Morgan.

After the board had heard from President Shaffer, concerning his trip to New York last week, it was decided to request a change in the propositions of Mr. Morgan and a message was sent to Mr. Morgan announcing their decision on this matter. In explanation of this message the Amalgamated Journal says:

The executive board desires another conference with the representatives of the constituent companies and will remain in the city until an answer is received. Upon the result of that answer will depend whether the strike will be prolonged indefinitely.

In the same statement of the result of the conference of the executive board the Journal has this to say:

"The strike situation [illegible] remains about the same as it was one week ago, so far as the working conditions of the mills are concerned. No attempt has been made to start any of the closed mills outside of the Wellsville steel plant of the American Sheet Steel company and their effort in this instance has been a failure."

The message sent to Mr. Morgan, while not so stated, is believed to be an ultimatum to the head of the U. S. Steel corporation. It is viewed so by the labor leaders about Pittsburg. If the steel workers do not get their demand for this conference the strike will go on indefinitely. The [illegible] still maintained their silence and said they had nothing to give out. At noon after the executive board had been in session all morning and in a formal manner waited for a reply from Mr. Morgan the members decided to make an official denial of the report that there was a lack of harmony in their ranks. To the reporters present they gave out the following:

"We, the members of the general executive board of the Amalgamated association, desire to deny emphatically the reports published expressive of disagreement among us. We are disposed of the work before the committee as fast as its importance will permit. No members have expressed any opinion or given any statement of the business for publication to the members.

"Nothing has been made public, neither will any report issue from us until a definite conclusion is reached. We are simply trying to reach a settlement which shall be honorable and satisfactory to all concerned.

"Whatever differences might have existed, are said to have been adjusted satisfactorily and the boards stands as a unit for its demand for the recognition of the conference with the manufacturers' representatives. To accept Mr. Morgan's propositions as they now stand would only complicate matters more, according to the officials of the association. Whether Mr. Morgan will answer the message of the Amalgamated association or not seems to be a question and even the association officers do not care to state positively that if he does not there can be no settlement at this time of the strike. Mr. Morgan's silence is regarded by some as significant and ominous. Others profess to believe that he is in consultation with other officials of the U. S. Steel corporation and will answer shortly.

The secretiveness of the meeting of the Amalgamated men, which has characterized the preceding meetings was continued today. The members of the executive board gathered early in the morning and remained confined to the conference rooms of the headquarters all day with the exception of a brief lunch hour. There were the same guards placed outside of the offices and newspaper men were kept back from all approaches to the meeting.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon President Shaffer, acting on behalf of the board, sent word to the newspaper men that there would be no statement given out for publication today and that there would be a meeting of the board tomorrow morning to consider matters. The meeting did not adjourn at this hour, however, but remained in session until nearly 6 o'clock.

During the afternoon Joseph Bishop of the board of arbitration of Ohio, was present for some time. Ex-President M. M. Garland of the association, was also in the offices for a time but both of these men left early. They declined to discuss the situation in any form except to say that they did not know what the proposition were for a settlement. There was many rumors in the streets circulated today. Among those interesting the most was that the American Steel [illegible] was preparing to bring a large number of non-union men from the south to take their places and that the officials of the Democratic [illegible] were preparing to break the strike at that point. Every avenue of approach to these mills is being carefully watched by the strikers and not the least loophole is being left open [illegible]

INDEPENDENCE DEFEATED BUT NOT DISGRACED

Newport, R. I., Aug. 1.—The Independence had an opportunity today to show her mettle. Although defeated by the Columbia she was by no means disgraced. Over a triangular ocean course of 30 miles, in a breeze light at the start and fresh at the finish, the conqueror of the Shamrock beat her five minutes and 24 seconds, corrected time. The first ten miles of the course was a beat to windward. The Columbia at one time was nearly half a mile in the lead, but as the wind freshened the Independence pulled up considerably. Then came a run down the wind with the breeze in starboard quarter. The Independence was left far astern by the Columbia in this leg.

From the second mark to the finish off Brenton's Reef lightship it was a reach with the wind a little before the port beam. In this leg the Independence did her best work of the day. She gained one minute and forty-nine seconds. She was heeling over considerably at times and going very fast as she sailed the last leg of the course, ten nautical miles, in 45 minutes and 45 seconds, better than 13 knots an hour.

The Independence was measured by John Hyslop, the measurer of the New York Yacht club, before she was taken out of the harbor this morning. About four tons of lead had been taken out of her, consequently her water line length was reduced to 88.63 feet, 14 inches less than the Columbia's. Hyslop figured out her rating as 102.73 feet and calculated that she must allow the Columbia 31 seconds over a 30-mile course instead of the 43 seconds she was penalized with in her previous race. The official time of the race was as follows:

	Start.	Finish.
Columbia	11:40:09	3:22:51
Independence	11:40:06	3:27:40
	Elapsed.	Corrected Time.
Columbia	3:42:42	3:42:42
Independence	3:47:40	3:47:40

FOUR SUSPECTS ARE IN JAIL

Bell Boys Held on the Supposition That They Know More Than They Should of the Antler Robbery.

Four bell boys employed at the Antlers hotel were arrested yesterday morning on suspicion of having stolen $3,000 worth of diamonds from Mrs. Burr Ferguson, a guest of the hotel. The prisoners, who are locked up in the county jail, are Harry F. Peterson, James Jessey, P. L. McNeily and E. L. Robertson, their ages ranging from 18 to 20 years.

The robbery, which was perpetrated some time Tuesday afternoon, was the largest and one of the boldest reported to the police of this city in recent years. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson are wealthy New Yorkers [illegible] and have been in the city about ten days and engaged rooms at the Antlers. Tuesday afternoon they went to Manitou, leaving the door to their room locked. When they returned they found that thieves had ransacked the place during their absence and had stolen nearly $3,000 worth of diamond trinkets.

The theft was reported to the local police and Deputy Sheriff DuLue and Detectives McNeill and Tim Connor of Denver, who are here looking out for crooks during the jubilee, also took a hand at investigating the case. The fact that the rooms had been entered by some one who had a key led the detectives to believe employes of the hotel were the thieves. Suspicion finally fastened itself on the bell boys.

The four boys were taken into custody at the hotel shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning by the three Denver officers. They were taken at once to the county jail and Peterson, who is said to be the leader of the thief [illegible] was closely questioned. The police [illegible] a strange story of having met a man in the hallway near the Ferguson suite and at the stranger's request showed him the room. Peterson had no right to do this and the detectives say he is lying. They say also that Jessey knows something about the theft and that the others are not altogether innocent. The boys will be questioned further today.

NEWS NOTES FROM DENVER

Governor Orman and Other State Officials to Spend Two Days in Colorado Springs.

Denver Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Denver, August 1.—A report from Fort Morgan, Colo., says that Harris Sunnington, who shot Sheriff Calvert during a prizefight on Delivery last June, has been arrested at Monmouth, Ill. The deputy sheriff of Ft. Morgan has left with the necessary papers to bring the prisoner back to the scene of the crime. Sheriff Calvert has recovered sufficiently from the wound to be able to move around, but he has not yet regained full control of his mental powers.

Francis Randolph, the eighteen-year-old boy, who was found near Ft. Lupton, was brought to Denver this morning. He tells a story of misery and ill-treatment by a stepfather that is hardly believable. He says that his stepfather deserted him and left him out on the prairie to get along the best way he could. The stepfather's name is Chas. Kling. He says the stepfather and his mother had been traveling on foot over the country, looking for work, when he was deserted. He was found by a liveryman near Fort Lupton, and afterwards went to Denver. He says that at one time the three lived at Colorado Springs.

A special from Quincy, Ill., says: A deal was closed and delivered from Mahoney, of D[illegible] parties the Silver Dollar Terrible [illegible] per No. 2 [illegible] Old Trail mines. These claims of mines comprise valuable claims in the Sheffels district and have been held at $50,000. The claims will be developed at once.

The matron's department of the city jail has been quarantined on account of a case of diphtheria which developed in that department this morning. The quarantine will not affect the receiving of guests in the other departments of the city hotel.

Reports from Glenwood Springs state that the coroner's jury which investigated the death of Charles Johnson, whose body was found in the Grand river Sunday morning, found that his death was due to a gunshot wound, fired by some unknown party, from the rear. Developments indicate that it was a cold-blooded murder, but as yet there is no evidence that will throw any light as to who the murderer was. The weapon used was a large caliber rifle. Johnson was one of the most highly respected men of that community.

A report from Greeley says Mrs. L. L. Brush, wife of former Lieutenant Governor Brush, died at the family residence at 9 o'clock last evening, from dropsy of the heart. The funeral services will be held at the family residence, tomorrow morning and the interment will be in Lyngrove cemetery.

It is thought here that the robbers who so successfully robbed guests at the Antlers hotel, at Colorado Springs, yesterday afternoon, are the same parties who operated in Denver a short time ago. A number of the Denver detectives are in the Springs assisting the police there.

Deputy Game Warden Frevert came to Denver this morning with the hides and heads of five mountain sheep, which he had secured near Walcott. They had been shipped to a taxidermist who refused to receive them, and notified the game commissioner. An effort is now being made to catch the man who did the killing.

Two trainloads of state officials, and their friends, left this city this morning to attend the opening of the Quarto-centennial at Boulder, today. The party included the governor and his staff, together with a large number of state militia. They will return this evening and proceed to Colorado Springs on a special train early tomorrow morning, where they will take part in the celebration, remaining there two days. From all indications tonight, it would seem that Denver will be well represented during tomorrow's program at Colorado Springs. The railroads have prepared for an exceedingly large crowd by putting on a number of special trains.

CRIPPLE CREEK NEWS NOTES

Letter Sent to Colorado Passenger Association—Handsome Paper Received.

Cripple Creek Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Aug. 1.—The committee named at Monday night's meeting, in the city hall, to induce the railroads to give a five-day limit to tourists and visitors to the Cripple Creek district, met this morning in the First National bank. In addition to the committee, there were present S. J. Henry, general passenger agent of the Short Line; Jesse Waters, superintendent of the Florence & Cripple Creek and Midland terminal roads, J. W. Saunder, commercial agent for the Midland Terminal, and W. A. Mallory, passenger agent for the Colorado Southern. All the officers present were of the opinion that if the matter was properly submitted to the Colorado Passenger association, the request would be granted. The following letter was then prepared and mailed to those having authority:

The committee named below, appointed at a mass meeting held in the city hall of Cripple Creek on July 29, at a session held this morning, decided to ask the following request of the officials of the railways of Colorado, handling Passenger business into Cripple Creek.

First. That said railway officials be requested to ask from the Eastern Passenger association, upon the application of any purchaser of an excursion ticket, at the office in Cripple Creek or any connecting line, for an extension of a five-day limit, that the said officials will have the power to grant the same.

Second. That this privilege shall [illegible] be extended to Cripple Creek from points in this state.

Gentlemen: We feel that this request is of the utmost importance and respectfully urge that you give it careful consideration at your earliest convenience.

Respectfully submitted, A. E. Carlton, Nelson Franklin, J. T. Fulton, committee.

The Colorado Springs Gazette Quarto-centennial edition proved to be very popular with the people of the great gold camp. The edition besides giving a complete and concise history of the advancement of Colorado's industries during the period extending from [illegible] TODAY, present issue is noted to be a work of art, typographically. The sales of this paper upon the streets and at the news stands, show conclusively that the enterprise of the Gazette is greatly appreciated by the public. The big edition arrived over the Midland this morning, and by noon it was the talk of the camp. The handsome cover, typical of Colorado, the clear cut half tones, tracing of Colorado's unexcelled scenery and industry, and the data in the articles, make this edition purely a state paper. Many vote it to be the best edition of any that has ever been thoroughly circulated in the district.

The case of J. J. Winters vs. the Colorado Finance & Safe Deposit company, came up for trial before Judge Seeds in the district court this morning. A jury was selected and the case was then continued until tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Mr. Winter alleges that last fall he deposited $2,000 in gold in his safety deposit box, in the defendant company's vault, and that several weeks after upon going to the vault, he only found one $20 gold piece left of his money. He is suing the company for the recovery of the money.

The cases of the people vs. Tom Surver, John Ward, Charles Gray, Charles Northcutt and Barney Hague, from indictment found by the special grand jury, which were set for this term of court, have been re-set and will come up for trial in the September term of the district court.

Peter Hettig commenced action in the county court today to recover $300 for goods from Curran & Waggoner.

Kate Casey vs. Louis Maneval is the title of a $300 money demand suit filed in the district court today. The case was appealed from Justice Barber's court.

Articles of incorporation of the Dome Rock Tunnel and Placer company were filed with the county clerk today by George Bindbental, John E. Thatcher, J. W. Ferguson, [illegible] SWARTS and A. A. Crooks. The company is capitalized for $100,000, and the incorporators are the directors. The principal office of the company is to be in Cripple Creek.

A marriage license was issued today by the county clerk to Elmer Graham, aged 21, of Hillsboro, Ill., and Alice Dowdell, aged 21, of Great Falls, Mont.

S. B. and G. W. Parks today gave a warranty deed to W. F. Rock, in consideration of $2,300 for the south 20 feet [illegible] block 4, Parks addition to Cripple Creek.

H. L. Shepherd is entertaining his mother and sister of Norfolk, W. Va., and his sister-in-law, Mrs. J. W. Shepherd, of Marker, Colo.

Out of town arrivals at the National hotel were: William Ainsworth, T. F. McCarthy, H. F. Cuggar, S. Shapiro, Ella Spivey and sister, J. J. Yeckel, E. B. Webb and N. B. Cool of Denver; A. Kurz and W. Hill of St. Louis; Mrs. J. L. Trowbridge, Miss J. R. Trowbridge, Virginia Freeman, William V. Washburn and Walter Florence of Chicago, and J. E. Brothers of Gunnison.

HOME TEAM TOOK TWO FROM IOWA

Yesterday's Game Won by Locals in a Pretty Fight.

TIED IN THE SIXTH

But Gaston Was Steady and Millionaires Pulled Out a Winning Run Before the Game Ended.

Score 4 to 3.

The Millionaires won the rubber yesterday in the series with Des Moines in a well-played game. The contest was a close and interesting one and the result was in doubt until the finish. The game was won by a timely hit of Heimphill's in the fifth inning, which scored two runs. This heavy hitter had the fielders afraid of him, and as soon as he came to bat they moved back to the extreme limit. Thump saw his chance and placed a short fly in left. This came up to deal the ball, but it went through him and by the time it got back to the diamond the runner had crossed the plate.

Gaston was in great form and pitched a splendid game. Up to the sixth inning the visitors batted him for only two hits and only five were made off him in the entire game. Five men made a vain effort to connect with his curves, and his great pitching saved the game a number of times. Often a single little hit would have tied or beaten the score, but at such times Gaston retired the batters as fast as they came up. His pitching was the best done by any of the local wielders in a long time.

The game opened with the necessity for a field captain in the fourth inning Warner knocked a high [illegible] to [illegible] and [illegible] ball was Shay's but Reap made a run for it, and neither one got it, the ball dropping directly at their feet. Such fielding as this is inexcusable and shows lack of team work. Some one should designate the player who is to field a ball and the other men should keep out of the way and keep still. Other instances occurred where a half dozen players went after a ball and left the bases unguarded. There is need of coaching, and Donahue should take his men in hand for a few earnest practices.

The were [illegible] close plays yesterday and consequently the kicking on the umpire's decisions was general. It might be well to say that Tindill's umpiring is as honest, impartial and efficient as could be asked for. He may possibly make mistakes, as he probably did yesterday in calling Hemphill out at second in the seventh inning, but these mistakes are very few and the roasting frequently given him is quite undeserved.

In this connection a word should be said about the profanity used on the diamond yesterday. Had Umpire Tindill called the police to escort several player's from the grounds his action would have had the unanimous approval of the audience. Players who cannot control their tempers and refrain from cursing in the presence of hundreds of ladies, have no business on a professional diamond. The sooner this sort of thing receives the attention of the umpire the better it will be for baseball in this town.

Shay started the scoring in the fourth by his single, Cate's wild pitch, Holland's out at first and Tannehill's hit to short stop, aided by Werden's error. Gaston lined out at two-bagger to center in the fifth and scored with Hemphill on the latter's home run.

The visitors tied the score in the sixth, making all three of their runs in this inning. Thiel got first by being hit by a pitched ball, O'Leary hit to short, forcing Thiel out at second. Warner singled to left and McVicker put a two-bagger in the same place, scoring the runners. He came home on a passed ball after getting third on fumbles.

Shay made the winning run in the same inning on his single, one by Holland, Tannehill [illegible] and Ream's hit to second.

THREE STRAIGHT FOR DENVER

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, August 1.—Denver made it three straight from Omaha today. The victory was the result of heavy batting, the locals making fifteen hits off pitcher Carroll of the visitors and 11 runs. Omaha batted heavily in the first, making six costly errors. Hertzog pitched his usual steady game, allowing but five hits up to the seventh inning, when the ninth inning he let down, and Omaha secured three hits and a base on balls, resulting in three runs. O. C. Jones' 3-bagger was one of the features of the game. The scores follow:

TO TRY OIL FOR FUEL

Stratton's Independence Will Make Important Experiment—Reported Rich Strike on a Modoc Lease.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Aug. 1.—At Stratton's Independence mine, the use of oil as fuel will be experimented with. A Heine boiler of 300-horse power is being installed, and under it the new fuel will be tried. If the experiment proves successful, alterations will be made in the furnaces of the three other boilers, and fuel oil will become exclusively used. It is claimed that the oil will save 40 per cent. The oil will come from the Florence fields. The installation of the new Heine boiler will bring the total power of the boilers up to 200-horse power. This power will be sufficient to operate both the old and the new hoist, and the compressor. The new hoist comes from the shops of Webster, Camp & Lane. The foundations for this machine are rapidly nearing completion, and will be ready in about three weeks.

Manager Coe, of the Jo Dandy, on Raven hill, has purchased a 100-horse power boiler, until recently in use at the Lucky Cuss mine, on Bull hill. He has also secured the five-drill compressor formerly in use at the Pilot and with the boiler and compressor in place he will soon be in a position to break rock at double speed. Manager Coe also contemplates the installation of a larger hoist, and when this is in position the shaft may be deepened a few hundred feet. The shaft is now 400 feet deep. The excellent showing made in both the drifts, and in the winze below the 400-foot level of the property, warrants the owners, Messrs. Coe and Rice, in incurring this greater expense.

The latest shipment made from the Santa Rita, of the Atlantis Mines corporation, consisted of 18 tons, and had an average value of $97.80 to the ton. Another lot, of about the same quality, will be marketed the last of this week. The ore comes from the three lower levels at the 500, 550 and 600 foot levels and the work of sinking for another lift is now commenced in the near future.

James Millen, who for the past two years has been struggling in an attempt to [illegible] a block of Modoc ground on Bull hill, is reported to have struck it rich. Although the particulars are not known, it is reported that the ore is identical with that found in the Modoc mine and is in shipping quantities.

One of the most important mining deals for some time in the Cripple Creek district, has been made by A. M. Johnson of Nebraska. Mr. Johnson for some time past has been identified with the Clyde Gold Mining company. The shaft on this property is now down to a depth of between 800 and 900 feet and the East Dollar vein has been encountered almost parallel with the west side line of the Clyde. Mr. Johnson is arranging with the holders of a lease and bond upon the Rigi group where recent operations at the 600-foot level have resulted in finding the intersection of two veins operated by and producing the immense wealth and dividends of the Modoc company. Developments to the northeast are said to have exposed the extension of the East Dollar vein in the Rigi group after leaving the Clyde company's ground. Mr. Johnson has concluded with the Rigi company a contract which permits him to start development of the 500-foot level of the Clyde shaft.

This contract went into effect today. This drift from the 800-foot level will take a southerly course until it reaches the locality of the Rigi shaft, at which point it will be 500 feet below the surface. At this point it will take a direct westerly course, hitting for the Portland company's ground. Here the drift will be 950 feet below the surface and the breast of the drift will be 400 feet east of the Portland No. 2 shaft. This work will be commenced [illegible] of today.

J. W. R. Laxton of Lynn, Mass., who owns a number of claims in the vicinity of Dam Site, will put up a plant of machinery in that locality in order to treat low grade ore. Mr. Laxton has done quite a little work in that vicinity and has opened a number of large bodies of low grade ore.

McFarland & Co., who have the lease on the north end of the Pharmacist, have started the work of retimbering the old shaft that is down to a depth of 175 feet. Already 75 feet of timbering has been accomplished and when everything is completed it is the intention of the leasing company to install a big plant of machinery capable of hoisting from a depth of 800 feet. The lease runs for a period of two years.

It is probable that work will be resumed in the near future in the United Mines Transportation tunnel, running north from the Columbine-Victor tunnel. All that has hindered resumption of work in the big bore is the non-arrival of 40 ore cars ordered some time ago. The breast of the tunnel is now in a distance of 100 feet in Coriolanus territory. When completed the tunnel will contain four miles of underground trolley road. It will cut the Wild Horse, on Bull hill, at a depth of 990 feet, the Trail at 528 feet and the Damon at 648 feet. The tunnel is being built for the purpose of conveying ore and waste from the Gold Coin, Big Banta, Trail, Deadwood, Wild Horse, Damon and other mines in this section.

Louisiana Man on The Sugar Industry

A. M. Underwood, a large sugar planter of Franklin, La., who is now at the Barker house, talked interestingly yesterday afternoon of the sugar industry in the south. Mr. Underwood has had a large experience in the business, having been in it over 20 years. The last 15 years of this period he has spent in Franklin.

"Few men have had a better opportunity to study the conditions as they are at present or the historical development of the industry.

"Thirty years ago," said Mr. Underwood, "the planting, harvesting and manufacture of the raw product into sugar was in a very crude state. Today the whole thing has been reduced to an exact science and the cost of making sugar is only 60 per cent of the raw product we now save about 75 per cent. This great saving has been brought about by a better knowledge of scientific agriculture and the great improvement in machinery.

"Without going into the minute and rather technical description of the process of making sugar which Mr. Underwood gave it may be enough to say that the sugar cane goes through five [illegible] extracting the sugar and leaving behind a dry pulp, which is used for fuel. The sugar is then purified by the use of sulphur vapors, after which it is boiled at a temperature of 140 degrees, instead of at 240 degrees, as was formerly the case. A fine white sugar, which is sold in the Texas markets, and a brown sugar, which is sold to the refineries are the products of this process.

Continuing Mr. Underwood spoke of the planting of the cane. It is done as simply as you plant potatoes. The stalk is buried, end to end, in long rows, and if conditions are favorable, each joint sends up a shoot."

"At the present time our business is very prosperous. Under the McKinley bill we were protected by a bounty of from 1½ to 2 cents a pound, but when Cleveland came in the bounty was taken off and the industry was nearly crushed. Had he remained in power longer the planters would all have been ruined. Now we have, according to the Dingley bill, a duty which averages about 1¼ cents a pound; according to the grade of the sugar.

"It is impossible to raise sugar in this country under present conditions without protection of some sort. Germany, Austria and France help their planters. The southern planter has to pay higher wages than the planters of these countries and, besides he has more to contend with in climatic conditions."

HERBST SUSPECTS A FORMER EMPLOYE

Mr. Herbst, who was robbed Wednesday morning, suspects that James Manlon may know something about the burglary. The circumstances of the affair lead to the belief that some one well acquainted with the place have been a party in the break and the fact that Manlon left town suddenly at about that time [illegible] Mr. Herbst gave him a job washing dishes in his place. If Manlon is guilty he is probably not the only one connected with the affair. The large number of boxes of cigars taken could never have been carried away by one man. The total loss will probably foot up nearly $[illegible]

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE LEE FUNERAL

[illegible] the funeral of Mrs. Robert Lee Williams, who died so suddenly [illegible] the cottage have not been fully completed.

Mr. Williams, widower of the deceased, is expected to arrive this morning from his home in Chickasha, I. T. Until he comes, nothing definite can be done about the funeral.

It is probable that he will take the remains back with him to El Reno, where the interment will be held.

BRIEF CITY ITEMS

CLIFF HOP—Last evening at the Cliff house there was a very pretty dance. Many guests of other [illegible] participated in the festivities.

MANSION HOP—There was a large crowd present at the Mansions last night to enjoy the dancing. It was one of the regular weekly hops.

[illegible]—A party of 14 started for the peak at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They are to see the sunrise and are expecting to reach Manitou again this afternoon.

CAKEWALK AT MANSIONS—The cakewalk given by some of the colored waiters of the Mansions house Wednesday night was a great success. The honors were divided between couples and so the prizes were also divided. Besides the cake which was offered a large collection was taken up for the best two couples.

EUCHRE PARTY—Wednesday evening there was a progressive euchre party at the Barker house. Seven tables were played and some very pretty prizes were given away. The first prize for ladies was an Indian-worked sofa pillow, which was taken by Miss Lillie Bell Fox of Palestine, Texas, and the first prize for gentlemen was a unique picture frame which was captured by J. [illegible] of Kansas City. Two consolation prizes were also given, Judge A. D. Land of Shreveport, La., and George Storch of Atchinson, Kansas, were the recipients of these.

PERSONAL MENTION

J. B. Vickson and wife of Memphis, Tenn., are at the Ruxton for some time.

J. D. Kirkpatrick and wife, well known citizens of Rome, Ga., are at the Barker house.

C. P. Wilson, J. K. Cubbison, wife and three children are at the Manitou house. They are Chicago people.

Mrs. Harvey A. Pierce and Miss Emma Schulte of St. Louis, who are spending the summer at the Barker house, returned yesterday from a week's visit to Minnehaha falls.

Mrs. J. R. Rucker, sister of Senator Bailey of Temple, Texas, is at the Ruxton for the season.

Rev. and Mrs. Thomas B. Lee and Miss Palm of Austin, Texas, are at the Manitou house. The Rev. Mr. Lee is widely known in Texas as the rector of the Episcopal church in Austin. Mr. Lee has been here before and has a large circle of acquaintances in this state. He leaves Saturday for Florence where he will supply the pulpit of the Episcopal church.

Miss A. D. Potts and Miss Gora Potts from Belton, Ga., are staying at the Cliff.

The rector of St. Phillip's Episcopal church of Detroit, the Rev. Charles Mockridge, is the guest of the Misses Hurlbert. Mr. Mockridge has been in California for the last two months.

Mrs. F. A. Lewis, wife of Surgeon Lewis, now in the Philippines, is on her way to join her husband. While in town she is staying with Mrs. A. N. Frowine.

BUTTONHOLE INTERVIEWS

D. E. Rice of Detroit, who is spending a few weeks here in Colorado Springs sold in 1857 six sets of Uniform Lift stamps to a Mr. Dan Davis. Mr. Davis said these were the first sets of stamps sold in the vicinity of Pike's Peak. Mr. Rice has specimens of ore taken from these mines at that time at his home in Detroit. It is very interesting to Mr. Rice to be here at this time when they are celebrating. Mr. Rice is stopping with his daughter, Mrs. Thomas, at 1225 North Tejon street.

A HARD STRUGGLE

Many a Colorado Springs Citizen Finds the Struggle Hard.

With a back constantly aching.
With distressing urinary disorders.
Daily existence is but a struggle.

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. Colorado Springs people endorse this claim.

Mr. James Niles of 35 East Cimarron street, carpenter, says: "During the fall of 1898 and the winter of 1899 an attack of backache persistently clung to me. If I had taken it in time I might have checked it in its earliest stages, but I neglected it, and when I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Jones & Wellington's drug store, 109 N. Tejon street, there was not the slightest doubt but some derangement of the kidneys caused the annoyance. As the treatment cured me, I am only too glad to indorse the remedy."

For sale by all dealers; price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

Kaufman's Reorganization Sale prices on men's and boys' stylish clothing—this week—are the lowest you ever dreamed of.

DR. DONALDSON ON QUARTO-CENTENNIAL

A stranger here might have said apropos today's celebration that our pleasures were taken, if not sadly, at least quietly. Certainly there was no hurrah today. The unveiling of the statue of Zebulon Pike (a man with such a biblical name should have done Pike's Peak) ushered in the Quarto-centennial proceedings.

General Palmer's address was dignified and to the point, which is perhaps more than can be said of the statue. This, as it is in plaster, lacks repose—most statues in America do, by the way. We very much question whether the man who made Pike's Peak and didn't bust ever stood with eight feet of leg extended in one direction and yards of arm in another. If Zebulon Pike got up the mountain we all so love, in that uniform and hat, he was a bigger man than we thought him.

However, he is to remain in his present attitude for all time and the sculptor can take the responsibility. After all, the average tourist does not and will not know why Zebulon is in bronze and in front of the Antlers, and he might as well in this attitude and uniform as any other.

The Quarto-centennial was continued by the Congress of Women.

The Opera house was jammed with woman. The eight poor men present heard things which sent each and every one of them home in a more thoughtful mood.

We learned that poor frail man was not what we had thought our or was it if years "women here have selves. Certainly women should be thankful for what Colorado has done for them. We heard that for women had equal rights with men." What these equal rights were was not explained.

Mrs. Goddard's address sounded however, a note of warning. She hoped that in the advance women were making, womanliness as such would not pass away." That after all that "these women," by whom, as Shakespeare says, "we men are men," should preserve those sweet qualities which, while they do make them ideal sweethearts, wives and mothers, do not make them lawyers, doctors and insurance agents. These are not Mrs. Goddard's words, but it seemed to one poor mind her idea.

Mrs. Byers, in speaking for the pioneer women of Colorado, made a delightful, clever and womanly address. It was witty and unaffected.

There were other speakers. We had a lot about women's advance, and the "orb of day" doing all sorts of odd jobs, the sun "glinting behind mountain snows," "white radiance," chilly night and dewy eve, etc., etc. Women's rights first, last and all the time, and so on—but this was the exception, and the ceremonial passed off with "dignity and aplomb," as Mr. Pickwick would say.

The pioneers' meeting at the Opera house brought to an end a day which was not as interesting as tomorrow promises.

LADIES DINED AT THE ANTLERS

Participants in the Women's Congress Had an Interesting Gathering at Six O'clock Last Night.

By Ella Cristie Adams

The dinner tendered those participating in the program of the Quarto-centennial congress of women by the executive committee of arrangements was a delightful affair. It occurred in the largest dining room of the Antlers at 6 o'clock. Covers were laid for 75.

Those participating were: Mrs. M. D. Thatcher, Mrs. W. N. Byers, Mrs. H. A. Carr, Mrs. A. A. Hawley, Mrs. F. T. Hanna, Mrs. J. D. Whitmore, Mrs. T. M. Harding, Mrs. G. L. Scott, Mrs. J. B. Bellers, Miss M. F. Lathrop, Dr. M. C. T. Love, Mrs. Ellis Meredith, Mrs. A. G. Wallihan, Mrs. J. S. Tucker, Mrs. L. Bradford Prince, Mrs. Frank Wheaton, Mrs. C. A. Eldredge, Mrs. W. A. Platt, Mrs. J. B. Greig, Mrs. Gilbert McClurg, Mrs. F. W. Goddard, Mrs. G. W. Lawrence, Mrs. J. A. Himebaugh, Mrs. E. C. Adams.

The color scheme of red, white and blue was beautifully carried out with hundreds of sweet peas. In the center was a dwarf pine tree sprinkled with the sweet pea blossoms, large bouquets of the separate colors were placed at inter vals and the whole table was enwreathed in a Dresden effect. At first the rays of the setting sun just peeping above the peak gave sufficient light. Then, as twilight deepened, electricity and candle light were used, the shades being of the prevailing tints, the dainty hand painted place cards were embellished with red, white and blue sweet peas, the name being in gold script.

The menu served was:

Queen Olives Salted Almonds
Radishes
Consomme Mirellie
Filet of Halibut Duglere
Tournedos Rachel
Punch Romaine
Roast Capon
Lettuce and Tomato Salad
Egg Plant au Gratin
National Ice Cream Assorted Cakes
Bonbons Cafe Noir
Fruit
Manitou Ginger Champagne

Missouri Reunion in North Park Tomorrow

Representative John Dougherty, of Liberty, Mo., will address a mass meeting of Missourians Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at North park. There are two or three hundred people from Missouri in this city and Manitou, among them being many prominent officials from various towns. The clannishness of Missourians being proverbial, it is not necessary to urge the invitation. After the program at North park, the people from Missouri will go to the Elks' fair, where, like the true sons of old Missouri, they will "have to be shown." All of them are wearing unique black and yellow badges with the typical Missouri phrase "Show me."

Hon. Dougherty and family are now at Manitou. Other well-known Missouri people in town are Dr. A. Reed and David A. Reed of St. Joe, M. A. Reed and family also of St. Joe, Ernest Forbes, a merchant from Kansas City, is also with the crowd.

Press Delegation Begins to Arrive

By Louise Agnes Welck.

The press headquarters are rapidly filling up with the wish and shining lights of the newspaper profession. Among those already here who will be present at the banquet tonight are G. L. Reed of the Boulder News, Col. David F. Day of the Durango Democrat, and of the one-time famous "Solid Muldoon"; W. C. Hunt of the Walsenburg World, Walter Juan Davis of the Denver Post, and I. D. Chamberlain of the Reform Press of Pueblo. Mrs. Lionel Anthony, "Polly Pry," and H. H. Buckwalter of the Denver Post are also here.

Colonel Day is accompanied by Major Joe Smith, Indian agent at Ignacio. These gentlemen and R. L. Hall, also of Ignacio, will have charge of the Indians who arrive today to take part in the Quarto-centennial celebration.

Enterprising Youth on a Long Journey

The most enterprising young man who has visited the city in many days made the police a call Tuesday night. The gentleman in question is only 10 years old, but he is a man every inch of him and has done things beyond the power of many gray haired fathers. The lad, a bright-eyed clever little fellow, has come all the way from Pittsburg in a week, working his way and stealing rides on trains. He applied to the police for permission to sleep in the jail over night, and yesterday morning he was up bright and early and off again on his journey.

He is on the way to join his sister in San Francisco and he says he will

Old-Timers Talked at the Opera House

THE DAY WITH THE COLORADO PIONEERS

Unveiling of the Statue of Zebulon Pike

SPEECHES PROCLAIMING COLORADO'S GREATNESS

Those Who Were Present in the Days of Little Things That Were the Beginning of Great Things Held an Interesting Gathering.

By William Percy Kegel.

"Nothing is more fitting than that the first day of the Quarto-centennial jubilee should be given over to the men and women who plodded across the plains years ago and made the celebration possible."

This remark was made last night by one of the speakers at the public meeting for Colorado pioneers in the Opera house. It was a busy and happy day for pioneers, and last night's meeting was a delightful and notable climax to the entertainments which had been arranged in their honor.

In the morning visiting pioneers were met at the railroad by local committees and escorted to the Antlers, where headquarters had been provided for them. There was a great lot of handshaking when old friends greeted each other, for the times when the settlers of the state meet are less frequent as the years pass by and their ranks are thinning. The visitors registered their names on a book which had been provided for that purpose, and about a hundred names were written down. Among the earliest settlers who registered were Robert Douglass, Anthony Bott and J. B. Donovan, July, 1858; John Mackey, 1859, A. C. Hill, 1860, Theresa Factorini, 1860, Anna A. Faulkner, 1861, Nellie A. W. Rouse, 1863, and C. R. Husted, 1866.

The pioneers had their pictures taken on the plaza at the Antlers at 11 o'clock and were given places of vantage to see the unveiling of the statue of Zebulon Pike at noon. Afterwards they were given a luncheon at the Spaulding house as guests of the city. The principal event of the reunion, the meeting at the opera house did not take place until the evening.

The theater was filled with pioneers, their children and grandchildren and others before the meeting was called to order by W. A. Platt, chairman. It was a patriotic audience, too, for when Casser's orchestra played the "Star-Spangled Banner" everyone was on his feet.

Mr. Platt introduced Gen. William Palmer as the first speaker of the evening. General Palmer was warmly applauded as he rose to welcome the pioneers. He spoke as follows:

"Pioneers of Colorado: The people of this town are glad and proud to welcome you to this celebration of the 25th birthday of our beloved commonwealth. One and all, we extend to you the heartiest greetings.

"Although you pulled up stakes at [illegible] only in the years just before during and following the civil war, you embody for the present people of Colorado the early history of their state. They have come to look back on the times your presence [illegible] like those which cling around the landing of the Mayflower, Penn's infant colony on the Delaware, or the first settlement of Virginia. You came here, whether on foot, horse or wagon, before any railroad had crossed the Missouri river, and without any of the [illegible] base. Something may be said for railroads, but they do not lend themselves to pioneering. Perhaps we are more interested in you because, like the buffalo, we know that from this mountain region, as from our entire country, your type will soon have gone forever, only Alaska will prolong the day of extinction. One cannot pioneer on a railroad train. This is the destruction of the pioneers. There were only so many struck off but few of these remain, and the plate has been destroyed.

"Having myself first ridden into this territory in 1867, two years before it was possible to come by rail, and having been more or less associated with [illegible] to be a pioneer, and to become of the experience and spirit [illegible] for future, if again temporarily or perhaps [illegible] Irving Howbert, of [illegible] cannot those genuine veterans I see before me, whom I found here when I arrived waiting to shake hands and inquire what brought me here, and why I had of late been [illegible] to obey the orders of the court. But meanwhile I propose to enjoy the self-assumed role, if only to be able to propound this one question: What should be the mental attitude, that of us pioneers, towards the conveniences, refinements and luxury which mark the present life on this frontier, as indicated by the scenes around us today, compared with that of the past? Should we bewail or extol the change? Shall we admit that all this indicates any real progress or advantage, or shall we stoutly uphold the [illegible] plain, homely life was richer and happier in those days, in spite of hardships and danger? There was no idle wife now, but is there really as good society as there was in those Arcadian days? We see, of course, that Colorado Springs must be full of fair women, but it will do them no harm to remember that we had our pretty women's ranch here before Colorado Springs was born.

"Leaving these vexed problems to our next Quarto-centennial gathering, I will conclude this welcome by wishing you, on behalf of this town, a peaceful and contented journey along the right trail to its end, with those three essentials to material happiness, wood, grass and water in liberal abundance, and that when the wagons are packed, the horses picketed, the blankets spread and fires ready to be put out, you may all lie down to the last sleep with as full courage and as light a heart as ever you did in your pioneer bivouacs on plain and mountain."

Mayor Robinson made a brief address of welcome to the pioneers. He was followed by former Governor Alva Adams, whose brilliant peroration, in which he paid tribute to the early settlers of the state, is here printed:

W. A. PLATT,
Chairman Pioneer Day Committee.

EX-GOVERNOR ADAMS' SPEECH.

"Better 25 years of Colorado than a cycle of Cathay."

Years alone do not measure the greatness of man or state. It is the use they make of years that marks their place in the ranks of the mighty. Acts, not time, make history. Noble deeds and not years are the stones of which its temple of civilization is built.

Aside from the versatile Wu Ting Fang the Methuselah of the nations is a shame to its centuries as it sleeps [illegible] of the ages.

It took Greece 500 years to subdue Syrian savagery. Rome gave seven centuries of effort to the civilization of her colonies.

In a single generation American enterprise and daring have planted in the [illegible] Roman power or the proudest hour of the golden age of Pericles. The genius of a few master spirits made these ages immortal. Our achievement has been the lifting of the [illegible] the rising to every citizen the priceless endowment of liberty and education. It is the average and not the exception that measures an age.

Elsewhere progress has come with the plodding step of evolution. Here upon the wings of transformation [illegible] the [illegible] today, the fairest offering that progress can place upon the altar of civilization—Colorado is the child of the nation's manhood. For a hundred years the flag of the republic had floated in the sunshine or rocked in the storm before Colorado was born to worship and defend it.

Almost the Benjamin of the states, yet nature has dowered it with more than the portion of an elder son. Professor Hewett, after an examination of the climate, geology and fossil remains of this region, ventures the theory that Colorado is the site of the original Eden. While it may be extra hazardous to underwrite this idea, the people of Colorado have but to live up to their possibilities to make a valid claim to paradise regained.

With the individual every birthday anniversary is the dispelling of a dream. With a state it should be a record of added triumphs, increasing new vigor and power. In the life of a state there should be no afternoon, no night, only dawn leading to meridian splendor. As we review the 25 years of statehood we can recall no broken ideals, no [illegible] expectations unrealized dreams. In our retrospect there are neither tears or regrets. As we sing of the past, as we point to the future our hearts are not tuned to the dolorous notes of Jeremiah, but rather to reflect the jubilant praise songs of David.

In the nation no statesman has ever been great enough to grasp the future of the republic, no prophet daring enough to predict a destiny that has not been overwhelmed and lost in the rising tide of achievement. To the timid want of faith and statesmanship of our law givers is due the ingrained patchwork of many [illegible] of them] enactments and legislation. Postoffice, custom house laws are like the clothes of a lusty boy that are outgrown almost before they are made. From the parsimonious intimate of our own country by her most eminent sons it is refreshing to turn to the [illegible] of Pharaoh who said that he placed his [illegible] subjects so far as to the [illegible] pride of that native American, the Sioux chief, who told Fremont that the western limit of his empire was the end of the world. Colorado has had but one son who had the [illegible] of prophecy. From a profound study of climate, altitude and geography, Governor Gilpin predicted that the Rocky mountain region was to be the seat of vast influence upon the destiny of the race.

Colorado's Many Advantages.

Certainly the conditions exist in Colorado for the highest development of the intellectual, spiritual and physical man. Where the best type of manhood and womanhood can be nurtured must be the theater of power. It is not the partiality of an [illegible] son, but the logic of history that selects the scenes amid which we live as the stage of future greatness. National development, industrial conditions, lines of travel [illegible] region as the mysterious land where the east and west cross, the north and south, where the fateful lines of latitude and longitude cut each other.

Here the caravans of the future will meet as they carry their products of man's labor, skill and culture to the [illegible] of the world. New Babylons and Damascuses, rich with the trophies of a new civilization, will be built in the shadow of our great hills. Here will be developed the genius that will [illegible] the [illegible] of the great [illegible] ways of the future stretching along the Rockies and the Andes from Bering Strait to the far southern cape. Here and how are being enacted the last scenes in the great drama of the world's march of empire from the orient to the occident. In the words of De Tocqueville "The gradual but continuous progress of the races toward the Rocky mountains has all the solemnity of a providential event. It is like a deluge of man rising unabatedly and moving onward by the hand of God." This inspired migration is now ended. The globe has been circled and the movement of [illegible] has begun and centers and along new lines. In Colorado and adjacent territory the pioneer made his last stand, achieved his last conquest. Springing from the Puritan of New England and the Cavalier of the south two resistless streams invaded the wilderness, [illegible] toward the sunset they pressed forward for 200 years until the [illegible] merged in the modern argonaut, the seeker of the golden fleece. The pioneer of the Rocky mountains is the product of two centuries of battle. This fierce warfare has made him the most self-reliant, independent specimen of manhood the world has yet evolved. The mission of the pioneer is now ended, their [illegible] to Heaven to subdue its wilderness to subdue. In this new land the pioneer dropped the rifle and hoe and the plow took up the pick and the drill and became the mining prospector—the most heroic character of the nineteenth century. He it was who made the great American desert a geographical reality. A chapter upon our country's map. He was a radical. He was not afraid of the new and the unknown. Had he been a conservative this land would still be marked upon our maps as the land of the Kiowas, Cheyennes and Arapahoes. Colorado is the gift of the prospecting pioneer to civilization.

Tribute to the Pioneers.

"Times' noblest offspring is the last."

Only the first lines of our epic have been written. When time brings a new Homer or Virgil, a nobler Ulysses can be found in these stalwart heroes, who with prairie schooner navigated the trackless plains, and, with gold-pan and shovel prospected the untrodden [illegible] of the mountains.

When the west builds her hall of fame and places within it a statue to the typical American upon that pedestal will be graven the name of some son of the west who blazed the trails and was nurtured in the hard school of [illegible] hills. The builders of empires may not [illegible] but they are masters of the art of self-reliance and manly conflict. They may not be the best patrons of libraries, but making history is nobler than reading the achievements of others [illegible] but it is nigh to do them. Human nature is a safe guide in reading character. When your children ask you to tell them a story of American heroism, they do not thrill over the works of the philosopher, statesman or [illegible] but [illegible] and daring that sends the blood tingling through the heart and veins [illegible] the lives of Davy Crocket, Daniel Boone, Zebulon Pike and Kit Carson that inspire youth with high resolves and [illegible] purpose. It is the strong and rugged, and not the gentle and refined, that stand out in heroic proportions against the sky of human achievement.

Pike's Peak the Hub of the Nation.

No one can bound Colorado without taking the measure of Gilpin and Hayes, Evans and Palmer and the hundreds of brave men and women who helped them in laying the foundations of a great state. Just before his death James Tyson, the Australian millionaire land and cattle king, gave a graphic picture of the triumph of the pioneer. In speaking of his 25 millions, he said: "The money is nothing. My satisfaction [illegible] the [illegible] of making the desert. I have been fighting the desert all my life and I have won. I have put water where was no water, beef where was no beef. I have put fences where there were no fences, roads where there were no roads, nothing can undo what I have done and millions will be happier for it after I am long dead and forgotten."

So with the builders of Colorado, they have been fighting the desert and have won. They have placed springs and fountains where fruitless reigned, harvests upon desolate prairie, threaded valleys and mountain passes with roads, planted schools, churches and homes from whence arise the myriad songs of happiness, prosperity and enlightened faith.

Colorado's Glorious Youth.

It is a long distance from the log cabin to the new Antlers hotel, but it has been traveled quicker in Colorado than in any other land. Here [illegible] with [illegible] have witnessed, been a part of every phase of evolution from the most primitive to the highest degree of civilization before have the years of a single active life spanned such a transformation in state development. Man seldom sees more than one act in the great drama of [illegible] progress; before our eyes and upon a magnificent stage has been enacted the entire play. The glory of Colorado is its youth. Living man [illegible] its foundation in courage and fiberity. God seems to have kept this region fallow until civilization was ripe to enter and possess it. It is a virgin land, with no traditions to bind, no precedents to follow, no superstitions to blind. Before us, for our warning six thousand years of mistake and shame, for our guidance six thousand years of victory and achievement. If we do not build the most perfect commonwealth we alone are delinquent, unworthy our position in the procession of human events. All is new and pregnant with the seeds of a mighty destiny. We have no ruins and no ancient cathedrals [illegible]

The early settler was not given to unnecessary worship. He was perhaps materialistic rather than spiritual. His energies were given to hunting for flour, bacon and gold rather than a [illegible] Fortunate are they that the book of fate is not made up from the [illegible] of a tombstone. Our cemeteries are new and small and many a [illegible] argonaut has not yet been obliged to take out a homestead for himself or family in God's acre. If Colorado has an aristocracy it is based upon deeds and not upon family. In the Pantheon of our immortals will be placed the names of those who, with honest hands, clean hearts and manly lives, have helped build this western empire.

HON. ALVA ADAMS.

You saw the little D. & R. G. creeping timidly along the base of the mountains until statehood came. Then it felt the thrill of a new destiny, climbed the mountains, threaded the valleys and gulches, planting towns, life prospered, growing so great that [illegible] preferred by many to a pass to the new Jerusalem.

Railroads as Transformers.

The [illegible] were the pathfinders, the heralds, but the railroad has been the mystifying agent of [illegible] development. It is the great transformer, the [illegible] of the age. Its weapons are those of peace. Its conquest—bloodless and permanent. transportation is the measure of industrial greatness.

"You have seen the millions of gold and silver coming from our hills and pouring into the arteries of our nation's commerce. You have seen the few patches of cultivated soil spread into four million acres of field and orchard and the few small irrigating ditches expand until twenty-two thousand miles of canals and laterals now carry fertility, beauty and harvest into the desert. You have seen the [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] today. Pike came, he saw, but he did not conquer. The pioneers came and saw and conquered. Where his transient foot [illegible] and [illegible] with the first storm that swept these mountains, the pioneer made permanent highways along which have been erected the monuments that mark our modern civilization. The men who followed Pike were prophets and poets and men who could bring things to pass.

"We have with us today a splendid representative of this type of man. He was a seer, he was a poet and no dream of his was too brilliant for his constructive genius to convert into reality. It is eminently fitting that he whose name is inscribed upon every monument that marks the progress of the state should address us upon the occasion of the unveiling of this statue of Lieutenant Pike. It is with pride and pleasure that I introduce to you General William J. Palmer."

As General Palmer stepped to the platform the immense crowd broke into [illegible] the founder of Colorado Springs, and a young man still in the prime and vigor of life, greeted them. His address was a comprehensive review of the life of Pike as stated in histories and from Pike's own diary. In full the address is [illegible]

"We are met, my friends, to unveil a modest statue and disclose to view the form of one of the famous American explorers, Zebulon Pike did not discover Colorado, nor the great Peak, at whose foot we stand. French trapper and Spanish soldier and civilian had been here and had [illegible] traversed this plateau and penetrated these canons, crossed these passes, and named many of the natural features of the country, before Louisiana became part of the United States in 1803. On [illegible] Lieutenant Pike and his little band of twenty-three men, on November 15, 1806, came in sight of this peak over 100 miles off, and gave their lusty cheers for 'The Mexican Mountains.'

"But Pike discovered this peak for us, the people which was to remain and develop this country and make a permanent home of it. It is therefore not unfitting that this grand old mountain should bear his name.

"Neither did Lieutenant Pike make the first ascent of this peak. So far as known, that was never accomplished until Edwin James and his four men did it on July 13, 1819. But this was in summer, while the climb of Lieutenant Pike and his men, up the rugged southeast slope of Cheyenne or the mountain range west of it, was in late November—a very different story. His men, clad only in light [illegible] without stockings, had come in without food from the comfortable temperature of 60 in the sun at the foot, to snow middle deep, and a temperature of 4 degrees below zero. When the grand peak covered with snow, now loomed up, apparently fifteen miles off, and as high again as they had ascended, it was quite natural they should conclude that no human being could have arrived at its summit. So they descended, amid falling snow to partake under a protecting rock of their thanksgiving dinner of one partridge, and a pair of deer's ribs, which the ravens had left, being the first food we had eaten for forty-eight hours.

"It is one of the quiet sarcasms of father time, that this little monument should be erected in front of the Antlers hotel to commemorate a man who, in the same vicinity and enjoyed that humble share of fare, and who in his diary of this rambling expedition has left this remark. He says it will not speak of diet, as I conceive that to be beneath a serious consideration of a man. This would seem to be a very impolitic legend for the portal of a luxurious hostelry. Lieutenant Pike aside, however, of a journey of such a nature, which may perhaps be held to save the situation, it is not surprising that under the inhospitable conditions narrated Lieutenant Pike should have overestimated the height of the peak above sea level by [illegible] feet.

VEIL LIFTED FROM THE FORM OF PIKE

The Statue in Front of the Antlers Is Presented to Public View Inspiring Address by General Palmer Marks the Occasion.

(By Louise Agnes Weick.)

The second statue to the memory of Lieutenant Zebulon Montgomery Pike was unveiled yesterday noon in the presence of hundreds of men and women from all parts of the state—veterans of two wars, browned and scarred by the fortunes of time and circumstances—pioneers whose rugged faces reflected the exact chiseling of the destiny of a lifetime—young men and women, serene in the confidence of the future—all were there to get the first glimpse of the statue erected by the citizens in commemoration of Lieutenant Pike.

The other statue stands grand and majestic, a solid moulid of granite, enveloped in the blue mist of summer. Pike's Peak, raising its hoary head unflinchingly to the scrutiny of the axes, standing among its comrades like a patriarch of old, will endure as a monument to Pike so long as man marks time by the rising and going down of the sun.

The statue of Pike was unveiled with ceremonies appropriate to the occasion. Long before the hour set for the unveiling the square in front of the Antlers hotel, the balconies and verandas of the hotel were crowded with people, anxious to get a first glimpse of the statue. The Midland band played patriotic airs as befitted the occasion.

Mayor Robinson made a brief address, introducing General William G. Palmer, "whose name," as Mayor Robinson aptly said, "was inseparably linked with all the splendid monuments of Colorado." The mayor said, in brief:

"To the pioneers who had watched for many years the growth of our state and of this community, to those who have more recently become interested in Colorado and to those whose natures respond to romance and poetry this is an impressive day and occasion. The past clasps hands with the present. The shadowy [illegible] which to almost realize the figure of the immortal Lieutenant Pike has been connected with the living past by men of heroic stature. Had it not been for the [illegible] today. Pike came, he saw, but he did not conquer. The pioneers came and saw and conquered. Where his transient foot [illegible] and [illegible] with the first storm that swept these mountains, the pioneer made permanent highways along which have been erected the monuments that mark our modern civilization. HON. IRVING HOWBERT,
Chairman Pioneers Reception Committee.

"A well-read neighbor tells me that Zebulon Pike's accounts of his discoveries are written in lively language, and accompanied by maps and sketches, the accuracy of which has been attested by the many exploration and surveys since made, and that from his diaries and maps we get a far clearer idea of the country traversed, than are furnished by the writings of Bonneville, Fremont and other explorers (I suppose he would except Lewis and Clark) and that his well written description of the great plains and mountains over a vast area, is most fascinating and instructive reading.

Quarto-Centennial Congress of Women

By ELLA CELESTE ADAMS

THE CONGRESS OF WOMEN held in the Opera house yesterday afternoon was a splendid success—of a character to fittingly celebrate the glorious event which it was planned for the historic celebration—the Quarto-centennial of Colorado. Long before the hour for opening the auditorium was filled to overflowing with an eager throng, and hundreds were turned away unable to obtain admittance.

The stage was gaily decked with potted flowers and ferns, while artistically looped festoons of national colors. All the boxes were hidden with the folds of the banting and many more of the parquet. Directly above the center of the magnificent banner presented by the Colorado Springs ladies' Wednesday afternoon whist club, the Quarto-centennial gleamed in all its glory. It is of rich blue silk, exquisitely hand painted by Mr. Louis J. Hagerman.

The device is the state coat of arms, described as "Nil Sine Numine" is a word with a history. The motto of the state was adopted by the governor's council at the state capitol in 1877. It was suggested by Hon. Lafayette Head, of Central City, and was adopted for the first time in connection with the seal of the state. The motto has special appropriateness to the people of this city, for without the breath of the Pikes Peak region, which is the mother of tropical plants, the sage, sitting was a hybrid.

Occupying the stage were the members of the executive committee, with the members of the various committees.

The program was a most interesting one, and was carried out in full by the Ladies' Auxiliary Band, the Colorado Springs Choral society, the Apollo quartette, and the Colorado Springs Ladies' Military band.

The invocation was delivered by Rev. Thomas Uzzell, pastor of the First Congregational church, and was as follows:

Almighty God, we thank Thee that Thou hast given us a country and a heritage. We thank Thee for the men who have made it possible for us to be here today. We thank Thee for the men who have made it possible for us to be here today. We thank Thee for the men who have made it possible for us to be here today. We thank Thee for the men who have made it possible for us to be here today.

Mrs. Eldredge—Introductory
"Gentlemen and Ladies: We meet today as we have not only in the history of Colorado but of a nation as well.

Twenty-five years ago this day Colorado was admitted into the union as the thirty-eighth state. A state in which women have been given great privileges. A state where women have come to give responsibilities.

During more than a quarter of the life of the state women have been equal citizens under the law with men. What then could be more fitting than at the Quarto-centennial the women of the state should meet and tell of their achievements.

Standing beneath this beautiful shield of emblem [illegible] its inspired motto "Nil Sine Numine" we should indeed be derelect if we did not obey its sentiment. Nothing without God. I therefore ask you all to join in repeating the Lord's Prayer, which will be led by Mrs. James B. Gregg, wife of the pastor of the First Congregational church.

At the conclusion of the prayer Mrs. Eldredge introduced Mrs. Goddard as follows:

One of the delights of life in Colorado is the mingling of those born and educated in different sections of our land. Sometimes they meet as do the ships that pass in the night and again they come as to a haven of rest. So our friend, who twenty-five years ago represented a New England state as one of its commissioners to the great Centennial fair, today as a citizen of Colorado extends a welcome to her people on the occasion of the anniversary of statehood.—Mrs. Francis W. Goddard, representative of the Colorado Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Goddard spoke as follows:

Fellow Citizens: It is the greatest privilege of my life to extend to you a hearty welcome to this, the fourth celebration of the admission of Colorado into the union. For a free people, assembled from various sections of our country, this gathering of women must mean much. We have been in close touch with the progress of women's work in bound to be productive of great good. The earnestness of purpose and devotion to a particular sphere of influence equips each one of you to be a power in the world, and [illegible] the [illegible] words of wisdom, suggested by past experience, are to [illegible] for the future will become an inspiration the influence of which can not be estimated.

Our presence here tends to emphasize the truth that the aspirations and ambitions of the race reach out toward the setting sun. The trite quotation of Bishop Berkeley has been fulfilled in a wider sense than he foresaw, as the star of empire takes its way still westward, carrying with it, ever widening circles, the blessings of life, as it goes. Gathering into its folds of civilization. It was toward the west that the Pilgrim Fathers turned their faces in the dark days of persecution as they chose exile rather than the renunciation of their principles. If we are worthy descendants of these noble [illegible] we can again affirm our belief in the truths which cost them so dear and thus do our part toward establishing in a new country a condition of life which will elevate public opinion to their standard of manly and patriotism.

Speaking to women as the representatives of the home, history [illegible] the work [illegible] for the restoration of the noble traits of character of our great grandmothers.

It [illegible] swings pressedly amidst the whirl of modern life it is not strange that much of the serenity [illegible] women of strict integrity and many skilled abilities. Their energies were not confined to the nursery nor to the [illegible] but to the household, but in the early days of the colonies they were active in all departments of life. We find women of affairs, women demanding representation and equal rights with men. They [illegible] and carried on extensive business enterprises and entered the fields of journalism. They bore their part in resisting oppression and stimulated all patriotic efforts. They never shrank from any sacrifice or any privation. Courageous, industrious, ready for every emergency, devoted to the home, finding in it their greatest happiness—fearless in asserting their principles, proud to bear their part of the common burden and cheering the soldier or counseling the statesman as [illegible] upheld by the feminine words of his country, but [illegible] to the faith handed down to them with a clear appreciation of what it involved [illegible] by upon them—God for direction and for strength. These were the women who molded the characters of the men who gave us this free country.

We have brought here from the east many [illegible] but no less precious heirlooms of character. The onward march of events has widened the sphere of woman's activity and she has entered new fields of usefulness. The professions have opened their doors to her and she has ventured into the turbulent sea of politics. There is much that is disturbing in the atmosphere of the present time, much that tests her endurance, but how will she meet the changed conditions that surround us? How can we make these new opportunities our servants, taking from them what is admirable and strong and yet retaining the womanliness so essential to the highest development of our natures? The memory of our ancestors will be our truest safeguard—and by following their example and imitating their gentleness and firmness their dignity and conscientiousness keep ever before our minds a type of character possessing much of the [illegible] grandeur. I [illegible] these thoughts softened by the emulation of their tender grace with the same calm reliance for guidance upon our fathers' God we may foster in this our beloved commonwealth a spirit of Revolutionary sturdiness of colonial grace and charm which shall proclaim that we are their worthy descendants.

In introducing the next speaker Mrs. Eldredge said:

We have with us one who can hardly be kept still so anxious is she to express her pleasure at being here today. Colorado knows her as the past president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, but beyond our borders she is remembered as [illegible] commissioners [illegible] Mrs. Thatcher of Pueblo.

Mrs. Thatcher's response was as follows:

We have listened with glad responsiveness to this charming tribute and [illegible] from sister states of Colorado Springs.

We are proud of this city which evoked from the wilderness by the spirit of the great Manitou was only an infant when Colorado received her naturalization papers which made her a sister in the union of states.

"We have come up to this fair plain at the foot of these mighty mountains to celebrate our 25th anniversary of statehood. Those of us who have lifted our eyes each morning to the peak as do the Faithful to Mecca—and have been inspired and uplifted to noble thought and aspiration thereby—realize what it is to the people of this city to [illegible] at its base to witness the exquisite cloud effect—the composite grandeur of overhanging rock, of leaping waterfall, and somber canon.

"We who come to you from the valley perceive this aesthetic influence in the beauty of your homes by your care for the temperate life in your churches, by the philanthropic and educational societies, and the substantial growth of your college. No matter where is the abiding place of the body the soul seeks to rise to the heights. You may see but the lucid rings of smoke from our great manufactories, but unborne by them are the prayers of the people for the betterment and progression of life here and hereafter.

MRS. FRANCIS W. GODDARD,
Colorado Springs.
Who Made the Address of Welcome at the Congress of Women.

It is glorious and soul stirring to [illegible] broad, [illegible] limited only where earth and heaven meet, [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] expands—and the goal attained reaches the great possibilities and loses the [illegible] of [illegible] and boundaries.

[illegible] To [illegible] east heralds [illegible] coming by a dash-light of rose and silver upon the [illegible] to feel the warmth and glow [illegible] and when the day is done and he sinks behind the mountain, still throwing his mantle of gold and crimson over their snowy summits, it seems an augury of the [illegible] after the chill and night of our earthly day when the celestial glory of all [illegible] to us as do the moon and stars—to enwrap and [illegible] thrill our hearts as they spread their white radiance about us. The mighty mountains appear as peaceful sentinels—our defense against all encroachment—their rigid and [illegible] outlines concealed by the veil of green and silver mist between.

Something in all this gives promise of strength inspires us with hope as we look out upon life's field of battle. It is a desire to enter the ranks and help to [illegible] for what ever stands against law and order our peace and prosperity.

Many of us [illegible] were born in this state but [illegible] to us [illegible] an inheritance of the earnest purpose and principles of our Puritan ancestry—but which has made the strength and greatness of these United States. Although we may have come [illegible] hood late, we came as a precocious child—demanding the full [illegible] recognition and have received the fullest rights of citizenship.

Many of us have changed our name since we came to Colorado. This reminds me of an amusing experience related [illegible] the other day. She had returned to her home in the east after a sojourn in our state during which time she had married. The little [illegible] of Colorado had been very devoted and [illegible] to give her greeting was reminded by her mother to be careful to call her by her new name as she no longer had a right to the old one. Another friend, Mrs. B., had also just returned from a visit to Colorado and came in to call. The child in [illegible] what is her name now. Her mother said: "Why, Mrs. B. has not changed her name." The child replied: "Oh, I thought everybody changed their name in Colorado."

Though we may have changed our name we have not changed our principles or forgotten our traditions. We look upon the achievements of our sister [illegible] states, and [illegible] then [illegible] congratulate our neighbors on their progress in [illegible] directions—for no one can be so truly altruistic as the pioneer—the hearty grasp of the hand and the hearty good cheer come from a full appreciation of the effort and struggle to attain. We are not there to [illegible] apart but a component of this great nation.

As women we have tried to assist in the [illegible] by [illegible] operation along educational lines and by philanthropic measures through our club system which comprises all this. We have accomplished much and expect far-reaching and continuous good. We are only in the beginnings now, having only inaugurated the club federation seven years ago. We are [illegible] like the Colorado student who had just arrived at one of our great universities and was taking his preliminary examinations. The professor asked him if he had gone through Calculus, and was astonished to learn that he had come through Kansas in the night and missed seeing that place. [illegible] yet reached Calculus, but we are on the lookout for it and will acquire it.

On this day we have met to pass in review over our first 25 years when we may say with pride, that we have reached our majority.

We are here to give thanks and the hand of fellowship with a cordial auf wiedersehen.

Mrs. Eldredge happily presented Mrs. Byers saying:

Hardly a day passes that we do not see the large covered wagon holding the family and household goods followed sometimes by a band of horses and perhaps a cow and we [illegible] how any one can endure life under those conditions. Little do we realize that all the blessings of civilization which we enjoy are due to the courage and bravery of the men and women who crossed the great plains in such conveyances to found a state. Of pioneer days Mrs. Byers who came to Colorado 42 years ago will tell you. Mrs. W. N. Byers.

Her address was as follows:

MRS. MAHLON D. THATCHER,
Pueblo, Colo.,
Who Made Response to Address of Welcome.

Madam Chairman and Ladies of the Quarto-Centennial Congress of Women: I had thought [illegible] asked to [illegible] never could answer. But I doubt if it required more courage than [illegible] a vast audience of brilliant people. Nothing but the hypnotic eloquent of your Chairman could have made me [illegible] to do such a rash act. Stripped [illegible] for a race like the pioneer—not one by adoption or sparkage but a genuine pioneer—nine [illegible] such active and—as old as anybody—I [illegible] quiet ones.

Pioneer days the subject given me is too broad and deep to be even mentioned in five minutes the time allotted me so the best I can do will be to speak of a few things that have come into my own life as a pioneer. I have always been a pioneer, having [illegible] three different territories—Iowa, Nebraska and Colorado. The very first [illegible] I ever remember was crossing the Mississippi river on a flat boat or ferry when the river was very wide and high, swift as a mill race and the wind blowing a gale. Nothing but my father's threat to throw me into the water saved me from convulsions and when at last the rickety old boat touched the shore I threw myself flat on the ground and [illegible] I [illegible] the [illegible] like [illegible] and have been in love with Mother Earth ever since. After living in Iowa about fifteen years, I married and moved to Omaha. We drove overland, arriving in Council Bluffs. We rested two days for the wind to lull so that we might cross the Missouri. It was dark when we ouched the Nebraska side of the world and all alone on the bank while my husband walked about three miles to where Omaha is now to get a team to take his wife and effects to the village, composed of a few rude cabins and frame shacks.

In starting across the Great Plains we did not have the [illegible] ox teams and wagons—only a plain common every day horses, not even mules. The first night out we camped in a pretty grassy [illegible] and everything seemed beautiful. I sat [illegible] ming an old guitar to amuse my two ton headed babies when suddenly a large party of Indians in war paint and war bonnets swooped down upon us. To say I was startled would [illegible] my feelings though I had become somewhat accustomed to the noble red man in Omaha. The Cheyennes had been having a battle with the Omahas and judging from the wounded carried on rude litters they had gotten the worst of it.

After reaching the Platte river [illegible] full experience life seems to have been the ban of my existence. There were many channels with [illegible] land between. Some of these channels were very deep and full of quicksand. The horses would go down, the wagons would careen from one side to the other as bad as ships in mid ocean, the men up to their necks almost in water cheering and [illegible] the [illegible] and I. After getting safely through one of these you can imagine my feeling [illegible] to plunge into another one. It was not a fairy picnic only a few little pleasantries that happened by the way. I arrived in Denver on the 7th of this month 42 years ago, went directly to the new hotel, a large frame shack. I had a room in which were a pine table and two pine chairs. I used my own blankets to make beds on the floor for my family. After staying there about six weeks we moved into a new log cabin without a floor, the grass roots being much in evidence. Here I [illegible] out our nice little belongings that brought from "The States" and really enjoyed life for a month when we moved into the rear of the printing office which has recently been torn down shortly to be rebuilt in Fifty park.

After spending the winter of 59 and 60 there we moved in to a canvas lined frame house on the west side of Cherry creek. [illegible] soon the structure burned down. We lost everything we had except the children. My baby had never been downstairs until about one hour before the fire. While living here I experienced the horror of seeing desperate men hiding behind a low shed waiting to shoot my husband as he came from the office. Nothing but a disguise changed every night prevented his assassination. These are only a few little things. Had I the gift of story telling I could amuse you for hours. Grace Greenwood whom many of you remember spent some time with me in 66. She had a faculty of getting at the best that was in you and once after a long talk she threatened to put me in a book. She was promptly threatened with murder and gave it up. There is much of the pathetic in a pioneer's life—a great deal of the grotesque and so many things that were awfully funny one often had to laugh through tears but after all we had many pleasant times. My life was easy compared to that of many. Many have passed over the Range. The ranks of the real pioneers are thinning very fast. There will be none left to meet in your next Quarto centennial. Fellow pioneers hail and farewell.

Introducing the representative of the Woman's Relief Corps, Mrs. Eldredge said:

As an outgrowth of that great sanitary commission which did so much good in the field and record of the Civil war has come the Woman's Relief Corps, an organization formed in Denver eighteen years ago and now a Colorado woman is its national president, Mrs. Mary L. Carr of Longmont, whom I present to you.

Mrs. Carr said:

[illegible] and [illegible] today celebrate we are glad to note that place is given for the record of whatever has transpired within our boundaries to benefit mankind or mark the progress of a life-long philanthropy. The [illegible] which I have the honor to represent at had its origin, as a national body, in the capital city of this state.

Previous to the civil war organizations of women for the purpose of [illegible] were practically unknown. Small societies known as church and social [illegible] to have religious tendencies were the nearest approach to organization.

The poor and unfortunate at large received help only from the pauper fund or from some large hearted philanthropist. In those quiet days there seemed little outside of their domestic life to claim the attention of women. There were, indeed, [illegible] state nor national societies of women for any purpose.

When the [illegible] rang through the country in 1861 women in every section, north and south, were moved by a common impulse to make more tolerable the life of those at the front. Soldiers' aid societies sprang up in every town and village, and, as the war progressed, the rolling of bandages and the [illegible] ping of lint became universal.

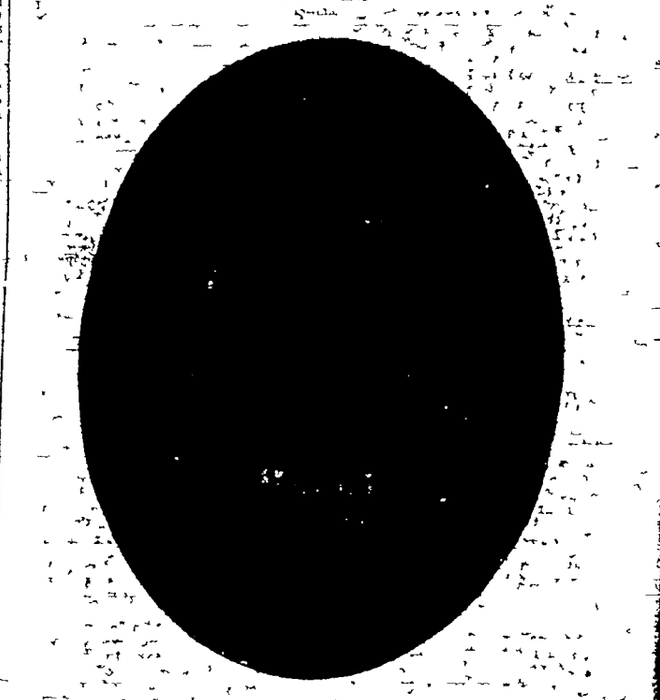
In hospitals established by the government for the sick and wounded deficacies and careful diet were out of the question with the facilities at hand. The mothers of our brave soldiers at once realized this deficiency and the sanitary commission, quickly systematized under the supervision of Mary Livermore and Mrs. Hage, and their co-workers came into life. The record of their work has become part of the nation's history.

When in the [illegible] soldiers who had held intact the government of these United States took up again the peaceful vocations of life many thousands who had gone out in the strength and beauty of manhood returned with crippled bodies or with health impaired. Through a decade these men struggled on. To [illegible] from the words of another. Sickness and old wounds and lack of work and bitter disappointments began to make cruel ravages in the veteran ranks. Hundreds of orphans cried for bread, hundreds of women in widows' weeds went about seeking work in the name of soldiers' husbands and there was none. Where then would the veteran turn for help but to the loyal women of America—the women who had stood by them in a harder fight?

Fraternal ties among these men welded by the heat of battle had united them in the organization of the Grand Army of the Republic, a society that has no parallel in history. In rendering aid to [illegible] state com[illegible] and their dependent ones there was still a need of woman's nursing.

There was dearth of woman's tears. Then came into being the Woman's Relief Corps, the natural sequence of the life of volunteer army of nurses who during the civil strife braved the discomforts and dangers of field and hospital and the larger volunteer army of those who served at home.

New England, with its large soldier population was first in organizing these auxiliaries, and as the wave of immigration surged westward, the Grand Army and the Aid society came also.



MRS. D. WHITMORE,
Denver, Colo.

When the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic met in Denver representatives of relief organizations from the several states were requested by the commander in chief to meet and form a national association. The meeting was held and on July 26, 1883 less than 50 women united in a national association which was cordially received by the encampment, then in session as its auxiliary, "The Woman's Relief Corps."

From [illegible] beginning the society has in 18 years grown to a paid membership of 143,000, with branches in [illegible] at home. To aid the Grand Army of the Republic and perpetuate the memory of their heroic dead, to as-

ELLIS MEREDITH,
Denver, Colo.

Civic equality has developed among women a commendable quality of state pride. And direct interest in every question pertaining to the moral and intellectual development of this state has widened our influence and enlarged our powers. For, that reason we have not deemed it unwomanly or out of place to seek legislative aid for legitimate aims. True we have been dubbed "clubs" and "not altogether—approbrious epithet—but, in scarcely an instance where we have made our appeal to legislators and have won, but the after judgment has approved the measure.

The minor note of our song today is this, and it comes from the criminal, the helpless, the defective, the failures. In our penal and reformatory institutions there are over 1,000 inmates, exclusive of county and city jails. Of insane there are 627, deaf, dumb and blind, 135; [illegible] defective children, [illegible]

The state being unable to meet every demand, local organizations have been formed for gloriously combating the ills that mankind is heir to. Charity has been systematized, and there is no longer antagonism between men and women in this state where one cannot possibly declare supremacy over the other, not even in the matter of politics. We have many state offices held by men. Only one is occupied by a woman and she had established her efficiency. And if women seemingly go ahead and secure lucrative positions, it is because they are fully competent to fill them, and I know of no woman in an official position, no woman in the industrial world anywhere, even down to the little cash girls in department stores, who does not do some one who is dependent. Surely this state is large enough, rich enough, famous enough to give chances to all here, without the thought of antagonism. Civic duty has made woman's work here and now so effective. When we went before the joint committee of the legislature [illegible] for the State Home for Dependent Children, only three of the members were in favor of it. The rest protested, but finally were won over. The one member who professed most strongly is now its most earnest advocate, pleads for it every year, and adopted a little boy from the home to make his very own. This is our processional day. We are keeping step to the music of the state. The state is keeping step to the music of the nation, and the nation keeping step to the music of the stars. Does it hurt to tell the story of the failed and the unfortunate in this glad hour? There is a worldly wise philosophy that argues after this fashion. Life now is [illegible] too intense to quit on the inward, the defective and those who would block the way. We must forge ahead, we must push aside the weak, for the tremendous pulsations of a busy world have interest for those only who succeed. But our philosophy, woman's philosophy, consciously or unconsciously, and I am not sure that it has ever been expressed in words only in motives and deeds, is a different philosophy. In this our processional we must take all with us, we must include all. The criminal must march along with us if guarded. He must be treated as if the day might come when he would be no longer a criminal and my personal observation on the State Board of Charities, of which I was a member three years, led me to conclude that sometimes mistakes were made, and that there were men in bonds who ought to be free and men were free who ought to be in bonds. The poor and unfortunate of every description must be helped until able to do for themselves. And the thousand little waifs cast upon the mercy of the state must be carried on our arms and the sweet things they have lost in life must be made up to them. We cannot go forward only as we go altogether. This is woman's philosophy crystalized. In this, every happy, comfortable famed woman of the state should take a personal interest. We halt at this time to take an inventory of our possessions and to note the requirements for the future. Because we have acquired powers, greater opportunities will be given us and larger responsibilities will be presented to us. The home, the church, the school, the college and the university will have grown in vast influence when the half century of our state's existence shall be celebrated. I have wrung from the minor note just that in our gladness and hope and triumph we might not forget those who bring up the rear. Someone has expressed this thought this, our philosophy better [illegible] you and I will never find our complete salvation until we have led the last prodigal to set his face homeward.

An unexpected treat were the impromptu remarks of Mrs. A. G. Willihan of Lay, Colo., the expert and intrepid huntress who has won fame as a photographer of wild animals in their native wilds. In order to be present at this time Mrs. Willihan traveled 25 miles on pony back, 60 miles by buckboard, the balance of the distance to Rifle, a total of 90 miles was by stage coach. At Rifle she reached the railroad.

A pretty episode was the unfurling of the American flag from one of the balcony boxes just as Mrs. Tucker sang "The Star-Spangled Banner." By an electrical device the flag was in constant motion as if held by a strong breeze.

and to associate with those qualified to make and interpret them. Riches and intellect will yet be mingled together, and when that time arrives, as it certainly will, humanity will be far on its way to a higher civilization.

In a free government, a democracy of intellect and an aristocracy of wealth cannot long co-exist in peace without finding a just equilibrium of action. Both are necessarily aggressive and their present attitude far from friendly. These relations must, therefore, be improved, and this improvement, in my judgment, can only be effected by concessions having their root in mutual respect; otherwise a conflict must ensue, and one or the other will disappear. I may be unduly optimistic, but I firmly believe in one rule of political economy, namely that profits tend to a minimum. The spirit of the age is adverse to war and waste, and when we shall have overcome these the accumulations of industry will be more general and rapid than ever before. The field of speculation will be greatly narrowed, and men, having acquired comfortable fortunes, will have little incentive to increase their volume. And the leisure that their wealth will afford will induce on their part a cultivation of social feelings to which they are now aliens.

France and England, during the last century, accumulated more wealth than they had accumulated in all their previous history; while in this country our wealth rose from one billion dollars, in 1800, to ninety billions in 1900. The opening of new occupations to women has changed in a large degree the relations heretofore existing between increase of population and increase of wealth. These and many other things which might be enumerated tend to narrow the distance which now lies between what the economist calls the stationary state and the desire of thousands to realize it.

To show you the growth of this west or country, permit me to call your attention to a few facts that lie within the memory of us all. In 1853, Mr. Douglas, the great rival and compatriot of Mr. Lincoln, reported to the senate of the United States a bill for the organization of the territory of Nebraska. That territory was a portion of the Louisiana purchase and comprised what is now known as the states of Nebraska, Kansas, North and South Dakota, Wyoming and a part of Colorado, in geographical area it was ten times larger than the state of New York. It exceeded in extent all the free states then existing east of the Rocky mountains, and throughout this entire region now filled with prosperous towns, crop-bearing farms, world-famous mines, teeming cities and multiplying manufacturing establishments, there then existed less than 1,000 white inhabitants. All this mighty metamorphosis has taken place in less than half a century.

That sparsely settled and then inhospitable region has, through the courage and energy of men, been converted into six great sovereign states of the union, with twelve representatives in the federal senate and more than that number of representatives in the house. Is it difficult to see where the political power of this country will ultimately be located? We already furnish the east with a large portion of its meat and flour and fruits, and hope shortly to supply it with a new class of brains. Here is the field of its investments and the fountain from whence flows its dividends. It was only 11 years after Mr. Douglas organized the territory that the Union Pacific railroad took its start; and count, if you please, the number of great roads that traverse it now, and the streams of commerce by which it is fertilized. Who is bold enough to set a limit to the mighty achievements that will yet be wrought within the exterior boundaries of that region once marked on the map as the great American desert. What a fertile field for the labors of our children in the centuries to come. Who will furnish a canvas broad enough and strong enough on which to paint in enduring colors the resplendent panorama of progress which the next 50 years will furnish. The world is rising to heights undreamed of before, and the earth, responsive to the kindlier feelings and nobler ambitions of its children, will realize a golden age foretold by prophets and sung by poets. We are the sowers of the seeds. Our children will be the gatherers of the harvest.

They Are Cured of Rheumatism

Read What DR. BOYLE, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church says:

Dear Dr. Grover:

It affords me very great pleasure to testify that I have been completely relieved of an attack of rheumatism of three months' standing after five treatments in the ELECTRO THERMATORIUM.

The benefits of such a fully-equipped institution will ere long be fully appreciated in Colorado Springs.

W. H. W. BOYLE.

READ WHAT THEY SAY

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 29th, 1901.

My Dear Dr. Grover:

It is a pleasure to record my experience with your hot air treatment. Had doctored for some weeks last fall with several local physicians for inflammatory rheumatism, all the while getting worse. My knees, ankles and feet were badly swollen, and gave me excruciating pain.

The first treatment by your hot air method brought out a green perspiration which stained the clothes badly, and gave me relief. After thirteen treatments was entirely well. Since then have been subjected to all kinds of weather without any indication of a return of my rheumatism. This summer I completed in the foot races as a member of the High School team with as good success as I ever had.

Yours very truly,
J. E. HOBBS,

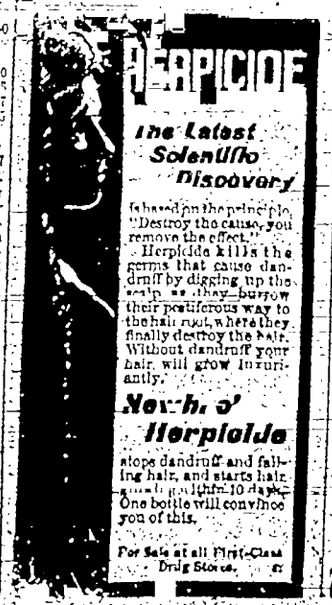
With other less known agencies caring for children the number is over 1,000. There are cooking schools, day nurseries, sewing schools, junior missions, free night schools and work with newsboys, all requiring personal devotion, time and money. In all practical work along altruistic lines and in educational matters the women of this state may take unto themselves glory on this occasion, for the reports given today may well prove an inspiration for the future. We have not always been given credit for practical methods, but that idealism and fads are our stumbling blocks. May I give an illustration which may serve to minimize if not to utterly do away with such a charge? A millionaire died recently. He was an excellent man, a model citizen, an earnest philanthropist. Besides the good and charitable deeds that marked his daily life, he planned largely for future generosity. But he would wait until his ten thousand should grow to twenty thousand, his twenty to fifty, and his fifty to one hundred thousand, and then some great enterprise of charity should mark the close of his



PERPICIDE

The Latest Scientific Discovery

(based on the principle, "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect.")

Herpicide kills the germs that cause dandruff by digging up the scalp as they burrow their pestiferous way to the hair root, where they finally destroy the hair. Without dandruff your hair will grow luxuriantly.

Newbro's Herpicide

stops dandruff and falling hair, and starts hair growth within 10 days. One bottle will convince you of this.

EL PASO OFFICERS ELECTED

S. S. Bernard Is Now President and H. H. Barbee Vice President—Stock Dividend Paid to Columbia on the 15th Inst. to Stockholders of Record on That Day.

The newly elected directors of the El Paso Consolidated company met yesterday and elected officers for the ensuing year, consisting of the following: President, S. S. Bernard; vice president, H. H. Barbee; secretary and treasurer, J. M. Jordan. By this it will be seen that several changes have been made. Mr. S. S. Bernard, who has been for some time the largest holder in the El Paso company, but who has previously held secretary and treasurer's position, now is vice president, while as vice president Mr. Barbee has been put in to represent the interest of the Columbia company. Mr. Jordan has been identified with the company for some time and has previously served the company as director and assistant secretary and treasurer.

At the meeting yesterday a dividend of 500,000 shares was declared payable to the Cripple Creek Columbia company in exchange for the assets of the latter which are to be turned over to the El Paso. Of this amount 500,000 shares are declared from the increased capital stock and the 25,000 shares from the 100,000 shares which was in the treasury before the capitalization was raised from 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 shares.

The Columbia books are now open for the transfer of stock, and will remain open until August 15, when they will be closed and the stock dividend paid to all stockholders whose names appear on the books on that day.

The El Paso books open today for the transfer of stock, but will close again on the 16th inst. and remain closed until the stock dividend is issued.

The first meeting of the new directorate yesterday was a very enthusiastic one. The property is looking splendid in several different places, and from the latest reports received from the Columbia company that is going to be a most valuable acquisition to the company. Mr. Barbee reported that he had just received word that the new vein in the 400-foot level has now been drifted on both north and south, and that there is ore in each direction. When this mine and the Kimberly are worked from the deep El Paso level it is probable that ore of great richness will be opened up, the showing is now so favorable in the upper levels.

The Gazette is the Only Newspaper in the State with Its Own Private Wire to the Colorado Springs Mining Stock Exchange.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Aug. 1.—With the colorful diversions on the streets today, the mining stock market fell flat as a wall, although the trading was exceedingly light, prices were fairly firm and there was some good bidding for several of the more popular stocks. The market is characterized during this spell of counter interests and warm weather by an undercurrent of calm, not only on the part of the brokers who have been keeping their eagle eye on its every movement, but on the part of those who are holders of Cripple Creek and who will buy more before many weeks are gone. It is the opinion of the most conservative that the bottom has been reached, and that when once it becomes apparent that an advance has set in the buying orders will be let loose as if the flood gates had been opened.

Black Belle was in some demand, selling at 10½, and C. C. Cons. went at 7½. There was a slight reaction in Elkton shares which closed at $1.76½ with a net loss of 1½, but El Paso was very strong at 47, and 10,000 shares of Gold Dollar sold at 16½. Isabella was firm at 43¼ and Pointer sold at 8½. R. H. Ajax was in demand at 4¼. Columbia sold up to 55¼. Easter Bell was active as was also Eclipse. Nellie V. sold at 6½ and Sedan at 7½. Acacia was much stronger at 15½, C. C. and M. was active at 7½, and King Gold sold at 1. The greatest activity during the day was in the preferred prospect list. The spirit of investment was dominant.

About Your Coffee

Are you "cranky" about its quality—want it just right in strength and blended just right for flavor and aroma? If you are that kind of a coffee drinker you're just the person we want to see, for we can suit you better in Coffee than you have ever been suited and the price won't be a bit more than you have been paying either. Come in and see us—we're Coffee cranks, ourselves.

ON THE MIDWAY

this week will be a mighty interesting situation you'll find time will slip away rapidly, indeed.

But you can stay as long as you like if you have laid in a supply of those Ready-to-Serve Table Delicacies, Potted Meats, etc., of which we make a specialty—and you can take your friends home to dinner, too. Dinner in thirty minutes after you get home—it, for a king.

PRESCRIPTIONS CAREFULLY COMPOUNDED

that's what they all say—but it's one of our cardinal principles. Our pharmacist in charge has 8 years experience—and no assistants but graduates of pharmacy are employed. Bring us your next prescription.

Don't give up your money for poor coal that's as hard to burn as a fireproof building. The quality of fuel lies in its combustibility. To get what will ignite readily, give a steady heat, and reduce completely to ashes, order from the Superior [illegible] facilities, close buying and short prices make us the consumer's friend. We economize for our customers. Anthracite $7.00 a ton delivered.

STICKING TO A CONTRACT

is one of our good points. We do not repudiate figures on estimates if the cost of material happens to take an upward jump during the progress of the work.

PLUMBING and HEATING

is our business and we keep posted on [illegible] improvements in the trade. Improvements in method or material are quickly made use of for the benefit of our patrons. Our figures and our work are both pleasing.
